SAFE BLOWS UP WHILE YEGGMEN BATTLE MARSHAL

50 Shots Between Officer and Robbers Wake Maplewood at 2 O'Clock A. M., Friday; When Explosion Shakes Buildings for Blocks Around the Bandits Flee.

WATCHERS OPEN FIRE AS MARSHAL PEERS IN

Officer Sees Men in Front of Safe Light Fuse; Returns Fire Until He Has Only Three Cartridges and Robbers Then Escape.

In a thrilling revolver fight, in almost absolute darkness, Charles H. Wiegman, Night Marshal of Maplewood, routed four yeggmen whom he found robbing the Maplewood Laundry, 7315-17-19 Manchester avenue, at 2 a. m. Friday.

About fifty shots were exchanged in all, but Wiegman was not wounded. The four robbers, he believes, also escaped uninjured.

While the battle was at its height, a charge of nitroglycerin the robbers had put into the laundry company's safe was exploded by a time fuse, tearing both the outer doors off the safe, breaking a large plate glass window in the front of the laundry and shaking the neighborhood for blocks in all directions.

Robbers Run Without Spoil.

Shortly after the explosion, the robbers ran east in Manchester avenue to the first cross street, turned north there, and disappeared. They got nothing from the laundry, as far as can be learned. The blast did not open the inner doors of the safe, behind which was about $200 in cash.

A St. Louis policeman was sent to Maplewood to investigate the work of the safe blowers. The officers believe it was done by the same gang which blew two safes in the 6500 block of Manchester avenue last Friday night and the safe of the Hamilton Pharmacy, Hamilton avenue and Hodiamont tracks, Tuesday night.

Found Robbers at Work.

The Maplewood police had been expecting a visit from the gang and Wiegman had been instructed by the chief, L. M. Ruck, to make frequent rounds of the business district during the night. He had completed an inspection along the south side of Manchester avenue, and was going west along the north side when he found the robbers at the laundry.

His attention was first attracted by two men he met just east of the laundry. They walked with their hats pulled far down, and big overcoat collars turned up, but Wiegman turned an electric flashlight on their faces as they passed, and observed, he says, that they appeared to be about 35 years old, and were smooth shaven.

Men in Street Open Fire.

Wiegman reached the laundry and saw two men kneeling in front of the safe, which is about six feet from the front of the office. One of the men appeared to be about 50 years old, Wiegman said, while the other looked much younger.

Wiegman said he saw one of the men light a fuse with the flame of a candle. Just then, he said, the two men in the street opened fire on him, and he ran across the street, and took refuge in a narrow hallway.

From that point he returned the fire, emptying one revolver and half the chambers of another, while bullets crashed into the woodwork and flattened themselves on brick walls all around him. Souvenir seekers picked several bullets from the walls of Wiegman's little fortress after daylight Friday.

Three Cartridges Left.

When Wiegman had but three cartridges left for work in close quarters, the robbers started to run. Their flight was witnessed by Henry Kratz of 7318 Manchester avenue and D. G. Jones of 7301 Manchester avenue, who had been awakened by the fusillade and the explosion of the nitroglycerin.

Wiegman said the street was so dark he could not see the robbers, but when he heard them running he left the hallway and ran to a residence half a block away. Hurriedly arousing the owner, Wiegman went to a front window on the second floor and continued firing at the yeggmen until their footsteps could no longer be heard. He then telephoned to Chief Rusk, who arrived ten minutes later.

Nitroglycerin Charge Heavy.

Investigation revealed that the robbers had entered the laundry through a cealshed adjoining the engine room at the rear of the building. From the engine room they had direct access to the workrooms and office.

They took a coalpick from the shed and knocked the combination off the safe with it. Into the cavity thus opened in the safe door, they poured the charge of "soup," after carefully soaping all the cracks in the safe.

The police say the charge of nitroglycerin must have been unusually large. The safe is about four and a half feet wide and five feet high, and very strong and heavy for its size.

GOV. MAJOR SIGNS NEW PRIMARY LAW

Election Will Be Held March 7 —Last Filing Day Is in Doubt.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—Gov. Major signed the municipal primary law for St. Louis this morning. This will enable the Board of Election Commissioners of St. Louis to begin preparations for holding the primary on March 7. Feb. 22 is the last day for the filing by candidates.

The first municipal primary bill was prepared by former Election Commissioner Joseph Jamison of St. Louis. This bill proposed to place party committees absolutely under the control of a stringent law making it impossible for them to interfere in politics.

Michael K. McGrath, late Representative from St. Louis, prepared another bill with the principal features similar to the Jamison bill. Both the Jamison and McGrath bills were rejected, and the Committee on Elections of the Legislature prepared its own bill, which was finally passed.

The bill provides that all candidates must file 11 days before the primary election, which will be held March 7. There is some confusion among politicians as to whether Feb. 24 will be the last filing day, or whether Saturday, Feb. 22, will be the last day.

A general statute provides that when any day fixed by law falls on Sunday, the matter shall go over until the following day. A ruling on the last filing day by the Election Commissioners probably will be demanded by the party committees.

Spearman Lewis First to File Under New Primary Law.

The first person to file declaration as a candidate under the new law, was H. Spearman Lewis of 407 North Taylor avenue, who wished to run on the Progressive ticket for the House of Delegates in the Twenty-fifth Ward. Lewis filed at 1 p. m. He was active in organizing the Bull Moose party in St. Louis last fall. Lewis is a promoter and publicity agent.

T. R. SETTLES DISPUTE; NO TIGERS IN AFRICA

Schoolboys Wouldn't Believe Principal and They Write to Roosevelt as Authority.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 14.—Theodore Roosevelt has settled a controversy in the Franklin public school here as to whether tigers "grow" in Africa. Principal Charles I. Webster told his boys that tigers did not grow in Africa, but the students would not believe him. They asked if they might put the question to Mr. Roosevelt as arbitrator. The Colonel was pleased to qualify as an authority on Africa.

"There is not and never will be a single wild tiger in all Africa," he wrote, "but the leopard is found there in abundance and is often mistakenly called tiger. The lion is found in abundance in both Asia and Africa, although it is getting very rare in Asia. As late as the time of Xerxes it was still found in Southeastern Europe. The tiger is found in much of Asia from Manchuria down to the Malay peninsula, thence into India and in places around the Caspian Sea, up to the Caucasus Mountains."

FEMALE ANIMALS MOST APT, BIOLOGIST AVERS

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Prof. E. H. Harper of the chair of biology of the Northwestern University has been experimenting on the relative intelligence of the sexes in animals. He tried his experiments on pups and kittens.

He found the female were brighter more intelligent, grasped ideas quicker than males.

"The female in all trials displayed great quickness in grasping ideas," said the professor. "The female maintained her supremacy over her male companion in a rather militant manner, which is quite according to the ideas of sex supremacy. That the conditions revealed are illustrative in the case of men and women is not quite certain. But such a theory would find support in some quarters."

TRAFFIC ORDINANCE AUTHOR HOIST BY HIS OWN GAZIPE

KNEW LAW, MADE IT

Told Policeman So Strenuously That He Was Right That He Was Taken to Station.

Councilman John T. Davis, of 47 Portland place, was hoist by his own gazipe Friday when he was fined in the Clark Avenue Police Court for violating the traffic ordinance of which he was the author.

Davis was arrested at 4 p. m. Thursday at Broadway and Washington avenue when he drove his automobile to the left of a westbound Page avenue car which was taking on passengers.

Patrolman Kraus testified that he would have accepted Davis' identification card and have served a summons on him if Davis had not been unreasonable. The policeman took Davis to Central District Station, where he was permitted to sign his own bond.

Argues With Court.

Policeman Kraus testified that after he signaled Davis to stop he would have been run over by Davis' machine if he had not jumped out of the way. He said that Davis, after stopping, argued with him and said: "I haven't violated the traffic law. I wrote that law myself and I ought to know."

When arraigned in court and asked how he would plead, Davis said: "O, I guess I'm guilty."

After Patrolman Kraus testified, Davis, standing in front of the clerk's desk, argued with Judge Kimmel and Prosecuting Attorney Garesche that he had not violated the law.

"I merely passed to the left of another vehicle, going in the same direction. That is done a thousand times a day," he said.

"Yes, and there are other ordinances which are violated every day, but that doesn't excuse the violations," said Garesche.

Finds Gazipe in Law.

"But I wrote this law and it says it is permissible to pass to the left of another vehicle," said Davis.

Judge Kimmel then read the ordinance. It says it is legal to pass to the left of all other vehicles EXCEPT STREET CARS. This is the gazipe in his own bill which Davis had forgotten.

Judge Kimmel fined him $5 and costs, but stayed the fine on payment of $3 costs.

A year ago Davis was arrested for speeding. In court he argued that there was an ordinance which exempted members of the Municipal Assembly when going to or from Council or House meetings. When asked to point out this ordinance, he could not do so and was fined.

ROBBER FORGOT RABBIT

Holds Up Bartender, Robs Till, but Leaves Game.

One dead rabbit was left by three shabbily dressed men who held up John Gately, bartender in the saloon of James Suffield, 930 North Twenty-second street, and helped themselves to $15.80 about 6:45 p. m. Thursday.

The three men ordered drinks from Gately, and then one of them covered him with a pistol, forcing him to throw up his hands while a second of the men rifled the register. The rabbit was in a package carried by the man who went to the register and he forgot to take it when he left.

—an object lesson

from experienced business men to doubters and inexperienced advertisers

An established custom of the successful business men of St. Louis is to buy more advertising space in the POST-DISPATCH on three or four days of each week than in three out of the four, and very often all four of the other St. Louis newspapers combined.

Why do they do this?

Simply because they have found, after years of experience, that the great circulation of the POST-DISPATCH blankets its field so completely that their announcements are seen by practically all of the people in St. Louis and suburbs.

This explains the fact that again yesterday, Thursday, these St. Louis merchants bought

84 columns

74 columns

in three out of four of its nearest competitors, the Globe-Democrat, Republic and Times, all added together.

There is no further proof necessary of the great supremacy of the POST-DISPATCH as an advertising medium.

C. M. FORSTER'S WIDOW SUED BY PHONE CONCERN

Carlson and Stromberg Company Demands $31,000 for Bonds He Bought.

AGREED TO PAY $40,000

Testatrix Is Now Asked to Pay Balance on Old Deal.

A suit for $31,000 against Mrs. Catherine Forster, administrix of the estate of C. Marquard Forster, was filed Friday in the Circuit Court by the Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Co. The claim is the balance alleged to be due on bonds of the defunct United States Independent Telephone Co. purchased by Forster in 1905.

Forster, who was a St. Louis brewer, died Feb. 21, 1912. His widow is executrix of his estate. She lives at 6251 McPherson avenue, in Parkview.

The petition alleges that Forster contracted in 1905 to purchase for himself and August Gehner $40,000 worth of bonds of the independent telephone concern. The contract was an underwriter's agreement, according to the petition, in which Forster represented himself and Gehner.

Claim Assigned to Plaintiff.

Forster agreed to pay for the bonds in installments of 20 per cent each, the petition states, and he paid $9000, leaving a balance of $31,000.

The claim was assigned to the plaintiff company by the telephone concern as part payment of an indebtedness of $742,678, according to the allegations. The plaintiff is represented by the law firm of Leahy, Saunders & Barth.

The United States Independent Telephone Co. went into the hands of receivers in 1907. It was organized under the laws of New Jersey and had a capital stock of $50,000,000.

Several residents of St. Louis lost large amounts of money when the concern went under, and it is said that they hold bonds having a face value of $950,000.

Some Bondholders Collected.

In December 50 St. Louis bondholders received approximately $350,000 from the receivers in full payment of their bonds, representing a face value of $550,000. Bondholders who were not members of the Bondholders' Protective Association have not received anything for the bonds they hold.

A suit against Adolphus Busch recently was filed in New York to recover the money lost by several bondholders. Several tracts of land owned in that city by Busch were attached. The suits are based on the ground that Busch induced the plaintiffs to purchase stock in the defunct telephone company by misrepresentations.

PARADE IDEA TAFT MIGHT NOT LIKE IS RULED OUT

Ohio Democrats Proposed to Have Donkey Lead Elephant With Patch Over Eye.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 14.—Stating that such a feature might be offensive to President Taft, Robert N. Harper of the Inaugural Committee at Washington, has written a letter to Clark C. Doughty, who is in charge of the Ohio delegation which will attend the inauguration of President-elect Wilson, protesting against the use in the inaugural parade of an elephant "blind in one eye and somewhat dilapidated."

The Ohio delegation had planned to have a donkey, representing the Democratic party, lead the elephant representing the Republican party at the head of the Ohio delegation.

The plan was to have a large patch over the elephant's eye and large patches on his side.

SUFFRAGISTS IGNITE BOX HOLDING $25,000

Militant Seekers of Votes Also Smash Windows—Two Months for Sylvia Pankhurst.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Feb. 14.—Militant suffragettes dropped a phial containing an explosive substance into the letter box of the Inland Revenue Office here today. An explosion and a fire followed promptly. The box contained $25,000 in paper money. Most of this was rescued, however, before the flames reached it.

A number of suffragettes were brought up in police court today, charged with smashing shop windows last evening. Among them was Miss Zelie Emerson, an American woman. She was sentenced to jail for six weeks in default of paying a fine. Miss Emerson led the raiders in company with Sylvia Pankhurst, who was sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

A police inspector who gave evidence declared that Miss Emerson played football with his cap, kicked him in the shin and punched him in the face. In reply the young woman declared that the policeman pinched her and she acted in self-defense.

$25 Sent to Conscience Fund.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—A conscience-stricken employe of the Federal Government, who got sick leave with pay when he was not sick, sent to Secretary MacVeagh $25 for deposit in the conscience fund. The penitent told the Secretary he returned it on the advice of his spiritual adviser.

Ethel Roosevelt to Wed New York Physician

He Has St. Louis Classmates

Miss Ethel Roosevelt and Dr. Richard Derby, whose engagement will be announced in a few days by the parents of the bride-to-be. The date of the wedding has not been made public.

Daughter of Former President to Become Bride of Harvard Man Who Is Scion of Renowned Alden Family—Both Are Devoted to Athletics.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Col. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt have made known to their relatives and intimate friends the engagement of their second daughter, Miss Ethel Carow Roosevelt, to Dr. Richard Derby of this city. Formal announcement of the engagement is to be made within a few days.

Dr. Derby is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1903, and is a young and successful physician in this city. His father was a well-known eye specialist, a graduate of Harvard in 1867, and whose death occurred on July 4, 1907, at his summer place at Dark Harbor, Me. He has two brothers, James Lloyd Derby, with whom he resides at No. 969 Park avenue, and Roger A. Derby, who is now at Jackson Springs, N. C.

His sister is Mrs. Samuel A. Tucker, of No. 155 East Sixty-first street.

Grew Up in White House.

Miss Ethel Roosevelt became the "Miss Roosevelt" of the White House upon the marriage of her half-sister, Alice. She made her debut Dec. 28, 1908, at a brilliant ball in the executive mansion. At that time it was said she was "about 17 years old."

Miss Roosevelt may be said to have grown up in the White House. She was only 10 years old when her father first took office as President. All of her education was received in schools in or near Washington.

While in the White House Miss Roosevelt was fond of dancing and this greatly added to the gayety of social life in Washington in the closing days of the Roosevelt administration.

In her young girlhood Miss Roosevelt vied with her brothers in every healthful outdoor sport and even when she grew older this same bubbling spirit and love of a romp was frequently displayed. She is an accomplished horsewoman, an enthusiastic long-distance walker, and a fine tennis player.

Is Pianist and Painter.

Miss Roosevelt also has been noted for her musical accomplishments. She is particularly fond of Chopin. She also is an amateur water color painter.

Her effervescence of spirit, closely resembling the same trait in her father, has been manifested in many ways. In 1908 she stood at the throttle of a big

FEDERALS TO BLOW UP 4 BLOCKS OF BUILDINGS; FIGHT HOTTER IN CAPITAL

Diaz Answers Demand to Surrender With Rain of Shrapnel and Madero's Men Prepare to Clear Strip, So That Arsenal May Be Battered Down With Mortars---Dead and Wounded Fill Streets.

PEOPLE PRAY FOR VICTORY; NOT CONCERNED WHO WINS

Rebel shell wrecks convent, killing many persons.

Diaz demands of Ambassador Wilson that the United States recognize Diaz as a belligerent, declaring he controls the city.

Diaz, replying to Madero's demand that he surrender, declares his men will die rather than submit, and that he asks no clemency.

Cruiser Denver turns back to Acapulco where intense anti-American feeling exists.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14.—The sixth day of fighting in the streets of the Mexican capital brought no dimunition in the fierceness of the battle. Early this afternoon no appreciable gain had been made by either side.

Federal engineers have began placing a series of mines charged with dynamite beneath nouses between the National Palace and the arsenal. The explosion of these is to clear a passage four blocks long through which the artillerymen will direct fire against Diaz and his army in their positions about the arsenal.

Residents Forced From Home.

The buildings in this doomed section are constructed wall to wall and the district is densely populated. Residents were warned during the night to evacuate their homes. All escaped with nothing but their personal belongings.

Gen. Huerta, the Federal commander, declared that with a flat trajectory the projectiles from mortars would soon demolish the arsenal. For this purpose it was necessary to destroy the houses before attempting to dislodge the rebels.

The hundreds of thousands of terror-stricken noncombatants have grown indifferent as to who wins, but all in the city uttered a prayer today that one side or the other might bring to a termination the terrible artillery duel which has wrecked the city and caused so much loss of life.

An ultimatum from Madero to the rebels was greeted with a hail of shells, and Diaz later asserted in an official communication to the United States Ambassador, that he was in control of the city. He asked that he be recognized as a belligerent, but this was refused.

Expert observers declared that Diaz had the advantage of position in some respects, but that the Federal commander had a great superority in numbers, and could count on practically unlimited ammunition and supplies. Diaz also is well provided with ammunition for the present.

President Madero last night received more reinforcements. Further bodies of troops were expected today. Gen. Blanquet was officially reported to have asked permission from the Department of War to leave a colonel in command of his force at Toluca, and come to the capital with a portion of his men.

Gen. Rivera is on the way from the State of Oaxaca with 900 Federal soldiers.

Truce to Gather Dead Sought.

The White Cross Society endeavored late today to arrange a two-hour truce, in order to collect the dead and wounded. The Federal fire became less intense, and the rebel artillery also slackened slightly.

Diaz soon after issued a notice that he was about to increase the fury of his bombardment of the National Palace. He warned noncombatants to withdraw from the danger zone. More persistent firing on the palace by the rebels then began.

Straggling bands of Federal soldiers passed the United States Embassy. It was believed they were deserters, and the impression grew that the Government troops were refusing to continue fighting.

Three different engagements in the streets were precipitated by the coming in of the Federal forces toward the rebel positions. In each of them, both sides played safe, after a sharp exchange of small arm fire and a vicious play of machine guns.

Rebels Open the Battle.

The rebels opened the battle today at 5:45, when they started firing in the direction of the Federal concentration points. It had been expected that the Federals would attack first.

The first salvo from the rebel lines was followed quickly by a series of others in rapid succession. Then the machine guns and rifles began their whirr and patter, the fire being concentrated where Government troops were gathering. The Federal guns did not delay in making vigorous reply.

The firing soon rolled into a steady fusillade. All around the arsenal the flash of field guns and the quick firers was incessant. Federal officers declared that their men were preparing to

Food Soars, Danger of Disease Grows

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 14.

THE city was in almost total darkness throughout last night owing to the cutting of the electric cables by flying shells.

Today provisions of all kinds were scarcer than ever and prices soared to unheard of heights. Robberies, burglaries and petty crimes of all kinds are on the increase owing to the lack of police protection and illumination.

The disposition of garbage has become a serious problem and the changing breezes bring home to the people that the carcasses of hundreds of horses killed during the street fighting of the last week still lie in the gutters.

Americans Insist on Staying to Watch Progress of Battle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.

OVERNIGHT dispatches from Ambassador Wilson say Americans are not in haste to flee from the danger zone in Mexico City, even when they have opportunity. Foreigners seemed determined to remain to watch the fighting, although Wilson reports at every interval between engagements he has sent motors throughout the city to bring all non-combatants into the neighborhood of the American Embassy.

Banking is paralyzed, and the Ambassador has been unable to draw upon the State Department for the $10,000 authorized yesterday for use in aiding Americans, and sending them out of the city. The State Department today authorized him to give the guarantee of this Government for any obligations incurred.

Fighting Is Kept Up All Night in City of Mexico

make a forward movement on the rebel lines.

A constant stream of refugees, most of them Mexican citizens, was observed carrying bundles and scurrying toward the suburbs from the densely populated district between the arsenal and the National Palace as soon as the firing became intense.

Long before daylight a steady stream of refugees for the most part belonging to the lower classes, but also comprising many of the better elements, poured out of the densely populated district in the neighborhood of the rebel lines.

Orders had been given to the Government troops not to oppose the evacuation of the district by these noncombatants. Great crowds of them filled the streets, staggering under the weight of bundles of bedding and other personal effects.

Sick people were carried away on the shoulders of their relatives. Aged women tottered feebly along, causing their frightened relatives much delay in their panic-stricken flight.

Many of these people had nowhere to go and were destitute. Most of them found refuge in churches.

Diaz made preparations to contest every inch of the advance of the Government troops, as he indicated he would do in his reply to the President's ultimatum.

Diaz Expects No Quarter.

He told the Government that his followers preferred to die at their posts rather than surrender. They would not ask for clemency.

A convent, five blocks beyond the National Palace, was wrecked by a shell from a rebel gun and a number of its inmates were killed.

Many shrapnell shells from the rebel artilery fell around the cable office, the American Club and other buildings in that vicinity. Others reached their mark, the National Palace at the end of the line of streets.

Two Federal batteries of five guns each, stationed near the British Legation, poured a constant stream of shells into the arsenal. Another Federal battery posted on San Juan De Letran street, joined in.

The rebel gunners soon turned their attention away from the National Palace and to these batteries, from which the Government gunners were pounding them unmercifully.

Intervention Idea Gaining.

The five days of fighting in the streets of the capital has, in the opinion of close observers, done more to change the sentiment of Mexicans in regard to intervention than has the whole two-year period of revolution.

Months ago a quiet feeling began to develop among a few of the better class of Mexicans in favor of outside assistance, but it found no public expression at that time. This sentiment has steadily grown, however, and the events of the last few days have strengthened it tremendously. The subject is now frankly discussed by Mexicans and foreigners, and it is a Mexican citizen who expresses the opinion publicly that the United States or some other power or powers jointly should intervene.

In the Colonia Juarez last night a gathering of Mexican women of the better class made no secret of their desire for intervention. Their formal statement of their feeling was as follows:

"We are praying for the end of our country's troubles, even through intervention."

Conditions generally in the capital are steadily growing worse. All business, both public and private, except that connected with the war, has ceased. Even the general postoffice has closed its doors and many of its employes are carrying rifles in the ranks of the Federal army.

Foreigners of military experience who have carefully followed the operations in connection with the Diaz revolt declared today in their opinion Diaz would be able to hold out indefinitely against the Federal attack.

"The Government has an almost impossible task in subjugating Diaz either with heavy guns or by direct assault," declared one military expert connected with the British legation.

The marksmanship of the rebel artillery during all the fighting has been excellent and their ability to sweep all approaches to their positions with machine guns makes it appear inevitable that any attempt by the Madero forces to rush the arsenal would result in heavy slaughter.

Storming Force Loses Heavily.

An attempt of this sort was made in the last hour of last night's battle when a detachment of Federals marched down the streets toward the arsenal, occupied by the rebels, and was repulsed with heavy loss.

It is believed this experience will cause Gen. Huerta to abandon such tactics and confine future operations to the bombardment of the rebel positions, with the consequent destruction of neutral property and the killing of noncombatants.

Shortly after midnight the Federal artillerymen planted a battery directly in front of the American Consulate, apparently with the deliberate intention of inviting the destruction of American property and the killing of many foreigners quartered in neighboring buildings.

The Federals attempted to direct their fire from this position into the rebel stronghold. The consulate building has been abandoned, but from its flagpole the Stars and Stripes are floating. The fire from this battery was not returned.

The rebels made an important forward movement at 2 o'clock this morning, advancing a battery of artillery into Independencia street, some blocks away from their former position. They began shelling the Federal battery posted at Santiago Church, adjoining the offices of the Mexican Herald. Other rebel shells continued to hit buildings in the center of the city and in the National Palace District.

Rumor of Madero's Flight.

Preparations at 2:20 to get a train ready at the Mexican Central Station created some comment. It was suggested that President Madero was preparing to flee from the city, but at that time the rebels were said to be in possession of the San Lazaro railroad station.

The firing had ceased at 2:20, but at 2:40 p. m. the rebel artillery again began a bombardment of the National Palace district, but the renewed action lasted only about a quarter of an hour and at 3 o'clock there came a lull in the fight, which was resumed at 3:15, with the rebels again throwing shells in the direction of the National Palace.

Lieutenant-Colonel Rubio Navarette, Federal Chief of Artillery, was slightly wounded, but he remained on the firing line.

The fifth day of fighting, which brought no decided advantage to either side, was another day of terror for thousands of noncombatants. These included large numbers of foreigners who could find in no part of the city a spot free from danger.

Shells raked the principal streets of the capital and tore their way into private homes and business buildings, as well as the public structures for which they were intended.

Bullets of the machine guns and rifles penetrated all corners, finding lodgment in buildings even in the remote sections. The Cuban and Belgium legations were made untenable, the occupants seeking refuge elsewhere. The French Consulate suffered a fate similar to that of the American Consulate some days ago, the Consul transferring his office to his country legation.

President Madero said in the evening that he had between 5000 and 6000 soldiers and could reduce Diaz speedily, but hesitated to do so because of humanitarian motives.

Diaz Rebels Paid Daily, $2 Each

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 14.

THE rebels have ammunition enough to continue the warfare for several days at least. They also have many more machine guns than they have yet brought into use. Their losses hitherto have been comparatively light. Their food supplies are sufficient.

The men are being paid regularly, $2 a day, and a large amount of money appears to be available for their use.

THIRD AMERICAN WOMAN KILLED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Greenfield, mother of Harry Greenfield, an employe of the Mexican Light and Power Co., a Canadian corporation, was killed by a shell in Victoria street in yesterday's fighting, it is learned.

This makes three women among the foreign victims of the battles.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—At the home of the Mrs. Kate Dreyfuss it was said that it was Mrs. C. Griffiths, mother of Percy Griffiths, and not Griffith's wife, who was killed Wednesday in Mexico City.

Mrs. Kate Dreyfuss is Mrs. Percy Griffith's mother. Griffiths, an electrical engineer, went to Mexico City from New York several years ago with his wife and mother. The mother, according to a dispatch sent to Mrs. Kate Dreyfuss, was killed by a shell in front of the American Club.

500 SEAMEN ARE ENLISTED

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Lieutenant-Colonel Zalinski of the Quartermaster's Department of the army was busy all of yesterday at his offices in the Army Building, enlisting able seamen and artificers for the crews of the four transports at Newport News.

"They are a pretty rough crowd," said the Colonel. "We simply had no time to recruit men in the regular way. We had to go out along the water front and pick up any men we could find. It was as much as we could do to insist on regular discharge papers. We are taking on deck hands, oilers, firemen—any kind of man who has had sea experience."

About five hundred men were brought in to sign articles during the day. They will all go to Norfolk in a body on board the Old Dominion steamer.

Cruiser Denver Is Turned Back to Protect Americans.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Because of intense anti-American feeling at Acapulco, Mexico, the cruiser Denver has been turned back into that port to protect Americans and other foreigners until the cruiser South Dakota puts into port there Sunday.

Rebels Reported to Have Taken One Capital.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Feb. 14.—Reports received at Matamoras, Mexico, state that Victoria, a city of 17,000 and capital of the State of Tamaulipas, has been captured by a rebel band, led by Maj. Refagio Trevino, nephew of Gen. Geronimo Trevino, commander in chief of the Federal troops in Northern Mexico.

Gen. Salazar With 1500 Rebels Watches Juarez.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 14.—With 600 Caraveo permitted rebels under Gen. Gen. Salazar, with to enter Chihuahua, his rebel army of nearly 1500 men, which recently threatened Juarez, is waiting within 50 miles of that border town. Although it is believed that Federals and revolutionists would meet as friends at Juarez, as they did at the State capitol, members of the rebel junta declared Salazar would not move closer to Juarez, lest trouble be caused.

TAFT READY TO INTERVENE ON 30 MINUTES' NOTICE

Will Act Only if Mexicans Kill Americans "Because They Are Americans."

CABINET SUPPORTING HIM

Wants Warships to Be on Scene Before He Orders Any Definite Step Is Taken.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—President Taft declared to close advisers today that only one thing could force him to ask Congress to intervene in Mexico. If the Madero or Diaz forces should turn upon Americans merely because they are Americans or foreigners, Mr. Taft let it be known that he would rush a special message to Congress in 30 minutes.

He does not regard the killing of a few Americans in the course of the battle as a cause for war, but looks upon such casualties as unavoidable and believes that the proper authorities should be held liable for damages.

If, however, the President were to hear that Americans were being wantonly killed and found Congress taking its week-end recess, his confidants today declared he would not hesitate to send an expeditionary force from the battleships at Vera Cruz and Tampico. Five thousand sailors and marines could be landed from them in a few hours and started for Mexico City.

International law recognizes the right of a government to send such an expeditionary force to guard its own citizens when they need protection. The sailors and marines would be sent to Mexico City, "as the legation guard." This was the method employed during the Boxer uprising in China and more recently in Nicaragua.

If such a step were forced upon President Taft while Congress was not in session, the President plans to follow it immediately with a message setting forth conditions, showing what he had done and asking authority to send United States troops across the border.

The President was disturbed today when he heard reports that communication between Mexico City and the United States might be cut off. He pointed out to friends that such a condition would resemble that in China when the foreigners penned up in Peking could not communicate with the outside world.

Cabinet Backs President.

President Taft met the Cabinet at the usual semi-weekly session and the Mexican situation was generally discussed. It was understood that the Cabinet is in complete accord with the President's attitude as it was expressed in his talks with callers today. Secretary Knox upon entering the conference declared there was nothing specific to be considered and that he had received no important dispatches since last night.

The President referred some of his callers to a letter which he wrote from Augusta, Ga., nearly two years ago to Major-General Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff of the Army, explaining his reasons for the order mobilizing troops then on the Texas border. In that letter the President said:

"My determined purpose is to be in a position so that when danger to American lives and property in Mexico threatens and the existing government is rendered helpless by the insurrection, I can promptly execute congressional orders to protect them, with effect."

The President will await the arrival of the division of battleships at Vera Cruz and Tampico, with their 5000 men, before announcing what he intends to do. President Taft is moved to delay out of fear not only for the safety of these Americans who are in Mexico City, but those in other parts of the Mexican republic.

In other words, the President and his advisers are convinced that were the President to make a definite declaration now, the lives of Americans in the Mexican republic would be worth little, the long pent-up anti-American feeling among Mexicans generally would burst forth, and every American would be in danger of being killed.

Wants Battleship Backing.

With a division of battleships at the ports which are the terminals of the railroads connecting the City of Mexico with the Carribean Sea, and a sufficient number of men aboard those ships to at least make a demonstration, the President will be in a better position to make demands on the leaders of the belligerent forces.

The heads of the army and navy have assured the President that by Saturday everything will be in readiness in their branches of the services to dispatch forces to Mexico without delay. This means that the army can be moved to mobilization points, and from there started for Mexico without a minute's delay.

Other steps being taken by the administration for action upon the arrival of battleships at Vera Cruz and Tampico is the assembling of all data in the possession of the State, War and Navy Departments regarding Mexico, for the use of the President in the preparation of a special message which he will send to Congress in the event he decides the sending of marines and blue jackets into Mexico can no longer be avoided.

Developments between now and Saturday may hasten the President, but such developments will have to be startling in character and mean that the lives of Americans will be safe only by intervention.

Mediation, rather than intervention, by the appointment of a Pan-American Commission, was urged on President Taft in a letter by John Barrett, Director-General of the Pan-American Union.

Cadets Will See Inauguration.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The West Point cadets may come to the inauguration at Uncle Sam's expense after all. Although the House struck the provision for their transportation from the army appropriation bill, the Senate today put it back.

VINCENT ASTOR IS SHOWN 9 WINDOWS LOOKING ON LIFE

THEY SIT UP ALL NIGHT

Governor Points Out Paths for Wealth's Opportunity and Astor Chooses Agriculture.

ALBANY, Feb. 14.—Vincent Astor, America's richest young man, will devote most of his time to scientific agriculture. Many of the millions that came to him from his father, John Jacob Astor, who died in the Titanic disaster, will be devoted to experiment designed to show that farming as a business can be conducted profitably, and to promote the "back-to-the-soil" movement.

Young Astor has determined upon this field of endeavor upon the advice of Gov. Sulzer. The Governor and the young multimillionaire of 21 sat up almost all night Tuesday at the People's House considering which road to accomplishment Astor should follow.

"You're looking out of only one window," was one of the first statements made by the Governor to Astor when the discussion between the two settled down to what the Governor called "tacks and hard facts."

"What window is that?" asked the young millionaire.

Puts Nine More Windows In.

"You have come to me for advice, asking my views," continued Sulzer. "I'm going to put nine new windows in your house. You can look out of each of these windows with me and you will get a greater perspective. After you have looked out of all the windows, select the view you like best and the field wherein you think you can be the most useful, and then go to work and do something for your fellow man. Nobody can do more than you can to make the world better and happier."

Last, but Not Least, Agriculture.

In succession the Governor verbally drew aside the curtains, exhibiting the other eight "windows!" These were medicine, politics, journalism, mercantile pursuits, organized philanthropy, mechanics, finance and agriculture.

"Well," said Gov. Sulzer today, in relating his midnight talk with the young millionaire, "Astor spent some time looking out these windows, and he didn't seem to take much interest in any one of them until I went to the agricultural window. The moment he looked out of that, he exclaimed: 'That is my field. That is what I would like to do. I have one of the finest farms in the State of New York down along the Hudson River, at Rhinecliff, of over 6000 acres.

"'My father never did anything with it,' he said. 'I am going to make that farm an experimental farm along scientific farm lines. And everything I do there will be told to the people of the State of New York and the people of the country, so that they will know, so that they will have the information, so that they can have the knowledge. I will have the soils tested and find out what they lack, find out what they are best adapted for and give the knowledge which comes from these experiments to the world of agriculture for its progress and benefit.'"

To Send Astor on Commission.

Gov. Sulzer's story of what took place at the interview between him and young Astor was occasioned by the announcement that he had appointed young Astor chairman of New York's delegation to the General Assembly of the International Institute of Agriculture to be held in Rome, Italy, next May.

On the commission also are Benjamin F. Yoakum, William C. Brown, Henry Morganthau Jr. of New York, head of the senior class of agriculture at Cornell; Elliot B. Norris of Sodus, J. William Sanbury of Busti, and Frederick H. Allen of New York. Norris and Sanbury are practical farmers and connected with the State Grange. Mr. Allen is a "gentleman farmer."

"BABY AND I WERE CURED BY FATHER JOHN'S

Baby Had a Cold and I Had Lung Trouble'

Now We Are Both Strong and Well."

In a recent letter from Niagara Falls, George Colquhow says: "I was taken sick about four months ago with lung trouble and was not able to do any work at all. Finally, I decided to give Father John's Medicine a trial and it has helped me wonderfully. I recommend Father John's Medicine to every one who has a cold. I am sending you a picture of myself and son. He had a bad cold, and I give great praise to your medicine, for it stopped his cough and cured him. I would not be without your medicine in the house for I think it is wonderful." (Signed) Geo. Colquhow, 746 10th st., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

TO CURB HIGH RATES IN CAPITAL AT INAUGURAL

House Resolution Seeks to Make Price No Higher Than They Usually Are.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Representative Johnson of Kentucky, chairman of the District of Columbia Committee, has introduced a resolution providing that the rates to be charged by "hotels, lodging houses, boarding houses, cafes, restaurants and similar places of entertainment" at inauguration time shall be the regular rates charged during the year prior to Feb. 25, 1913. A penalty of $100 fine for violation is fixed by the resolution and the defendant is made responsible for the maintenance of the complainant in Washington during the litigation if the complainant should prove his case.

There will be nearly 25,000 soldiers and sailors from the regular and State militia services in the inaugural parade. The civic section will have at least 15,000 marchers. Governors of twenty states are expected to take part.

The Ohio Legislature will adjourn and come to Washington in a body.

DEEP-SEATED COUGH

CURED IN FIVE HOURS.

New Home-Made Syrup.

(Cut this out.)

Progress in medical compounds never ceases, and now it is stated by a prominent medical man that any deep-seated cough or cold on the lungs can be actually cured in five hours by the clock. Opium and morphine have been resorted to in the past, as relief measures. But now it is learned that the system must be treated to rid it of inflammation and congestion. A tonic laxative cough syrup does the work so quickly and thoroughly as to be almost magical. What heretofore has taken weeks to cure can be accomplished in hours. Get this formula filled or mix it at home and always keep it on hand: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day until the system is purified and tones up. Give children less according to age. One filling will usually cure a whole family, as the dose is small. The above product is manufactured by the Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, O.

PRINCETON "RUSH" ON SUFFRAGETTES DOESN'T STOP 'EM

"ON TO TRENTON" TODAY

Gen. Rosalie Jones' Theft of Blankets From Advance Man Shows Her Intrepidity.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

Cries of "Rah! Rah! Jonesey!" echoed through the streets last night when 1000 college students yelled themselves hoarse as Gen. Rosalie G. Jones and her wilted army of suffragist hikers to Washington came up the main street long after dark.

Apparently the Princeton boys had been waiting around all day to welcome the walkers, for, when Mrs. J. Boldt of New York, accompanied by a war correspondent, appeared just before sunset—she having taken the shortest route—400 students "rushed" her, cheering for votes for women and demanding a speech.

They thought she was Gen. Jones. The mob nearly carried her off her feet, and nothing would do but she must mount a horseblock and make a speech. She did it very well, though it was her first speech. Then she escaped into the Princeton Inn, hysterical.

Marchers Lose Their Way.

The walk from Metuchen, increased to 27 miles because the marchers lost their way several times, was the most heartbreaking of the hike. The women straggled into Princeton, the stronger ones almost carrying the weaker, but all bound to "make it or burst."

The getting away from Metuchen was marred by the ill-humor of Ed Van Wyck, the advance agent. He saw that every woman had a bed in the crowded hotel, then he accepted a sofa in the corridor outside Gen. Rosalie's door. Late at night the hotel proprietor took pity on him, and threw over him a couple of horse blankets, and one of the official banners of the army.

Ed was as warm as toast when, about 3 o'clock this morning, Gen. Rosalie, who slept with Col. Ida Craft, woke up and discovered she was cold.

"I'll just look and see if I can find any more bed clothes," said Col. Craft.

Ed Loses His Blankets.

Going to the door in her nightie, the good Colonel saw what she though was a pile of bed clothes on an unused sofa in the hall. Reaching out, she dragged in the clothes and covered the little General snugly.

When Gen. Jones awoke she found herself comfortable under two horse blankets and a banner reading "Fanatics, Criminals and Insane cannot vote. Neither can I. I will awake!"

Not till Van Wyck had marched seven miles could he laugh at the joke.

After luncheon in a hotel in New Brunswick the army marched to Rutgers College, where 600 students received them with wild shouts of joy. Some of them plotted to kidnap Gen. Jones, but she escaped.

"Sir Jimmie" Is Knighted.

The General was getting away diplomatically when a student named James wanted to be introduced. When Gen. Jones pinned a button on his breast he theatrically sank upon one knee. The General, quick to catch the romantic side of the episode, touched him upon the shoulder with her staff and said:

"Sir Jimmie, Knight of the Suffragettes, arise!"

Thus was created a new order of knighthood.

From New Brunswick came a long hike over wretched roads, through an enemy's country. At Livingston Park, Mrs. Sarah Finch, 80 years old, standing in her gateway, called out, "Why don't you stay home and mend your husband's clothes? We're all home women here and don't want to vote. We've got troubles enough."

Wine Relieves Their Fatigue.

R. von Krebs of this place, an aged German, stopped cutting wood in the forest and came out into the road to wait for Rosalie. He had read every word printed about the Albany hikers.

After the army arrived the old farmer walked six miles at Gen. Rosalie's elbow and talked to her all the way. When it was intimated everyone was tired he stopped, put his hands to his mouth, trumpet-like, and shouted at a cottage:

"Hey, Tony Spinello! Come out with that wine!"

Tony came. He had a gallon of homemade Concord grape wine and many of the weary suffragettes were glad to take it. Then the miles slipped away easily for a while till the sun got low.

As the weary toilers crept toward Princeton and the country roads grew darker and darker, the women were almost falling by the way.

Had it not been for the foot powder and smelling salts that Chief Scout Schultz rushed to the girls down the road, half of them would never have arrived.

"Princeton boys" almost went wild over the pilgrims. But an old inhabitant says "The boys always holler just as loud over any new thing."

The attack on Trenton takes place today.

PARADE IS TO SURPASS RAINBOW

Every Hue and Then Some to Be Displayed in Suffrage March in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Smoked glasses probably will be necessary in viewing the suffragist pageant March 3, for the committee on arrangements today announced that the costumes would include every color in the spectrum and probably then some.

Under the artistic eye of the Hon. Mrs. Patricia Street of Australia, the multi-colored marchers will be arranged into one long color scheme that will dim the glories of the rainbow.

Miss Inez Milholland of New York, who will lead the procession on horseback, will be clad in yellow, and behind her will troop 50 ushers in pale blue and gold. After them will come women in gowns of variegated hue representing the native dress of the four countries that have given the ballot to women—Norway, Finland, New Zealand and Australia.

Following them will march representatives of those countries which have granted only partial suffrage, Sweden, Denmark, Ireland, Great Britain, Austria-Hungary and Belgium.

132 CARS IN ONE TRAIN

NEWTON, N. J., Feb. 14.—In making a test of the length of a train which it would be possible to haul over the new cut-off of the Lackawanna Railway near here, a train of 132 loaded coal cars was sent from Slateford Junction to Portmoris.

The train was more than a mile long with three locomotives pulling and two pushing it. The strong pull of the engines at the head of the line was too much for some of the couplings. They broke and caused a long delay.

WIFE DEMANDS $3000 DUE ON ANTI-CRUELTY PACT

Husband Agreed to Pay That Sum If He Were Bad; Then He Was Very Bad.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 14.—In a complaint for $3000 damages, filed today by Mrs. Otillie K. Bowden against her former husband, Rolandus K. Bowden, a wealthy broker, she alleges that in October, 1909, she filed a suit for divorce, charging cruelty, but that her husband begged forgiveness, and she took him back Nov. 4. In the presence of friends, she claims, a contract was drawn up as follows:

"The undersigned, Rolandus Bowden, does hereby agree to pay his wife, Otillie Bowden, $3000 if he, at any time in the future, treats her cruelly, abandons, deserts or otherwise gives her cause for action for divorce, providing that she does not by any similar acts give him cause for divorce. That the $3000 shall be paid upon the day such cruelty occurs. "ROLANDUS BOWDEN."

That her husband did not keep the pact is asserted by Mrs. Bowden, who gives this chronological table of his alleged cruelties:

Nov. 11, 1909, choked her; Dec. 13, 1909, threw her on the floor; March 29, 1910, picked her up from the floor and tossed her back; April 1, 1910, choked her; April 23, 1910, hit her over the head with a suitcase.

Finicky Appetites Put in Order

You Can Sit Right Down and Eat Anything Served if You Get Acquainted with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

With a most pathetic sigh the dyspeptic sits down and "views with alarm" his hungry companions. Now, the best doctrine for most people to hand out to suffering stomachs is to couple a square meal with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. To sit down to a good meal and eat whatever is served is getting back to the good old days when granddad carved the roast; when the family made a clean-up; and when good appetites with sound digestion produced the men and women that have made our nation what it is.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's hope. They are a natural restorative of healthy action to the stomach and small intestines, because they supply the elements that the weak stomach lacks—pepsin, golden seal and other digestives.

If you are afflicted with any symptoms of stomach trouble, be assured that your digestive organs are losing power—they need help and there is no more sensible help to be given them than to supply elements which will do the work of digestion for them.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been found by test to have digestive powers, one grain of the active principle of these tablets being sufficient to digest 3000 grains of ordinary food. It is plain that no matter what the condition of your stomach, or how far your disease has progressed, one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken at meal-time will do the work—give your stomach an opportunity to regain its lost powers, the muscles will be strengthened, the glands invigorated, and you will be a new man.

DANGER MARK NOW PASSED

In Condition of Mrs. Hibbs, According to Advices From Morton's Gap.

"I was taken sick and confined to my room and bed most of the time for ten months," writes Mrs. Louise E. Hibbs of this place.

"I had ulcers and then a tumor. The second doctor who treated me said the last chance was an operation, to remove the tumor, and when the third doctor was called in he told me it was serious and that it was doubtful if I would recover.

"I couldn't consent to the operation, so I decided to try Cardui. When I had taken two bottles I felt better. In two months I could go about and do light housework. Now I feel well and the tumor is gone.

"I do heartily recommend Cardui to suffering women. I am sure it will cure."—Morton's Gap, Ky.

Cardui acts gently on the womanly organs, and has strengthening effect on the entire constitution. For over half a century Cardui has been successfully used by many thousands of women, for numerous ailments, also as a general tonic for building up their strength.

So if you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, or if you need a good tonic to build up your strength—don't wait longer, but do as they do—take Cardui. Begin today.

It will surely help you, as it has so many others.

BAD BREATH

It's Your Duty to Get at the Cause and Remove It. A Word to the Wise, You Know.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, oil the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system of impurities.

They do all that dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Olive Tablets without griping, pain or disagreeable effects of any kind. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Take one every night for a week and note the effect.

Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

DEFEAT OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE BILL BY SENATE EXPECTED

Committee Probably Will Reconsider Its Favorable Vote on Missouri Amendment.

POST-DISPATCH BUREAU, JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—There is a strong possibility that the Senate Committee on Constitutional Amendments will reconsider its favorable vote upon the woman's suffrage amendment and of reporting it adversely one day next week.

Senator Buford, chairman of the committee, said today another meeting will be held to consider the measure before it is reported out.

The House Comimttee reported the women's amendment favorably the day following the hearing held here. The Senate Committee, which gave it a favorable vote, never reported the amendment out.

It is believed the committee stands five to three against the women's suffrage resolution. The Senate, since the hearing, has killed a bill giving women the right to serve upon school boards.

Interest on Gas Deposits.

A bill to require the gas and electric light companies to pay interest at 5 per cent upon all deposits for gas or electrical current put up by renters and persons without real property was introduced by Farrington.

The lighting concerns of St. Louis require every person applying for gas or electrical current, who does not own property, to deposit between $5 and $10 as a guaranty that he will pay the monthly bilsl rendered. This deposit is held as surety so long as the person purchases gas or electricity from these companies.

Change in Election Board.

A bill to change the law creating the Election Board of St. Louis, to make it conform with the view expressed by Gov. Major when he appointed a Progressive upon the board, was introduced by Fulbright.

This bill strikes out the provision requiring the Governor to make his appointments from the two leading parties, and provides that he be prohibited from appointing more than two members from any one party.

State Cheated, It Is Charged.

The location of an industrial home for incorrigible negro girls probably will be the subject of an legislative investigation. The Senate today adopted a joint resolution, offered by Senator Lysaght, for the appointment of an investigating committee composed of two Senators and two Representatives to look into the purchase of 52 acres of land for $4500 near Tipton as a site for the home.

Senator Lysaght said that citizens of Tipton had appeared before the Appropriations Committee and declared that the land in question was not worth barely one-half the price paid for it by the State. He also said that the citizens of Tipton are protesting strongly against the home being located in their vicinity.

This proposed home has practically been on wheels for more than two years. Half a dozen locations have been selected by the negro board appointed for that purpose and in each instance the white residents have protested. In two instances violence was intimated unless the location was changed. A year ago last summer a tract was purchased near Sedalia. Later Gov. Hadley became convinced that the State had been cheated in the price paid, and he forced a return of the mone. Sedalia, too, threatened trouble if the home was located there.

WOMAN, 70, IS BURNED TO DEATH IN HER HOME

Mrs. Hanora Egan Found in Flames by Two Men Who Hear Cries and Run to Her.

Mrs. Hanora Egan, 70 years old, was burned to death, Thursday afternoon, when her clothing caught fire from a coal grate in her room at her home, 1631 Morgan street. Her cries attracted Harry Stansbury and George C. John, insurance collectors, who broke open the locked door and smothered the flames in the woman's garments with a rug.

She lived with her daughter, Mamie, and kept the door to her room locked while her daughter was at work during the day. Mrs. Julia Roth, 1623 Wash street, told the police she visited Mrs. Egan Thursday afternoon and that Mrs. Egan locked the door when she left.

Stansbury and John found Mrs. Egan lying near the door when they entered, and she apparently had tried to reach the door and unlock it before she was overcome.

NEW HAIR-DRESSING PARLORS IN NUGENTS

One of the big attractions for women customers of the Nugent dry goods store is a new hairdressing and manicuring department, just opened under the supervision of Mrs. M. A. Warren, an expert in such matters. This new department is equipped with all the latest appliances, including a newly patented shampoo board imported from Germany. There are seven rooms devoted to women desiring hairdressing. In these rooms are regular barber chairs of white porcelain, white enameled basins, electric vibrators and a dryer that gives forth the heat of sun-ray temperature and dries milady's hair in eight or ten minutes. All the combs are sterilized by a special process and sealed in Red Cross packages, so that they are the same in cleanliness as if they were new. It is the same with the towels, and, in fact, everything is kept thoroughly sterilized. All the hair is kept in dust-proof drawers.

CLOGGED NOSTRILS OPEN AT ONCE, HEAD COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lie awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucus dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—ADV.

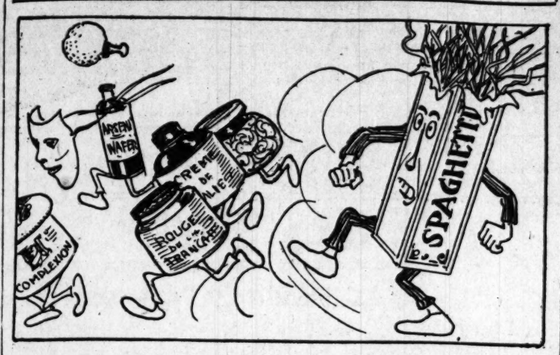

MRS. CRECELIUS HELD TO BE OF UNSOUND MIND

An information was issued by Probate Judge Shackelford at Clayton Friday charging that Mrs. Johanna Crecelius, who killed her husband, Louis Crecelius, at their home at Oakville a week ago Wednesday morning, is of unsound mind and incapable of managing her affairs. The appointment of a guardian to look after her property, worth $2000, is asked. The information was sworn to by Julius R. Nolte, attorney for Mrs. Crecelius. A hearing is to be held by Judge Shackelford March 3.

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. Crecelius, on the charge of murdering her husband, is set for Saturday before Justice John Crecelius of Carondelet Township, a brother of the slain man, but he will disqualify himself and appoint another to act in his place.

Public Administrator Schall was refused letters of administration by Probate Judge Shackelford Friday because Crecelius left a daughter who is more than 18 years old. At the request of this daughter, Maitida Crecilus, John Crecelius will be appointed administrator on the filing of a $30,000 bond. Crecelius left an estate of about $50,000.

Beauty a L'Italienne

("Eat spaghetti—always and only spaghetti—and you will be beautiful as the dawn in spring," says Mme. Lina Cavalieri, grand opera singer and renowned beauty, in a New York interview printed in Thursday's Post-Dispatch.)

By O. B. BREUER.

AWAY with your powders, cosmetics and lotions,
Your arsenic wafers, your rouges and creams!
Forget the massages, nor pay your devotions
To Venus with censers of Chemical steams.

Don't wear rubber masks, which are ugly and sweaty;
Do nothing but fasten your faith to spaghetti
And make it your diet, if you would be fair.

Spaghetti! In clusters and loops you must eat it,
In bunches, in sections and "one at a time."
You'll find, says dear Lina, there's nothing to beat it
In giving you beauty alluring—sublime!

And on the hard pavement he hammers his head!
The women are spurning the things he was vending,

Ethel Roosevelt's Fiance 'Fine Fellow' Friends Here Say

Two years ago she carried off the principal honors at the classic Meadowbrook fox hunt on Hempstead Plains in New York, leading all the other hunters in a 14-mile cross-country ride.

Descendant of Aldens.

Dr. Richard Derby, who is to marry Ethel Roosevelt, is a lineal descendant, through his mother, of John and Priscila Alden.

His mother was Sarah Alden, daughter of Gen. Alden of the United States Army. She married the late Dr. Richard Derby in 1877, and by an odd coincidence, a story of the wedding published at the time began: "St. Thomas' Church has not been so thronged since the marriage last winter of Miss Roosevelt, as it was yesterday for the wedwing of Sarah Alden to Dr. Richard H. Derby."

Dr. R. H. Derby, who was one of the most eminent eye specialists in the country, desired his son to follow in his footsteps, and the young man made a special study of the eye for that purpose, though in his Harvard days he showed something of a preference for philosophical reading.

He was a member of the famous class of 1903, regarded as one of the richest classes ever graduated from the famous institution at Cambridge. He was prepared at Groton School and went in for athletics.

He was a member of the freshman football team during his first year at Harvard, a substitute on the varsity team, and pulled the bow oar in his class crew.

In his junior year he was class president and throughout his college career was extremely popular. The faculty recognized this fact when they induced him to help lead a movement to bring the students back into the yard dormitories in 1901.

The richest of the students preferred the most luxurious outside residences and the faculty felt that this was not to the best interest of the school and special efforts were made to induce the most influential of the young men to return to the yard, in the hope there would be a general movement thus started.

Moves to Senior Quarters.

In his freshman year Derby roomed in Claverley, the most aristocratic and expensive dormitory at Harvard, but the following year occupied No. 13 Holworth, a dormitory of much historic interest, access to which could usually be gained by students only in their senior year, and the fact that Derby moved in as a sophomore indicated that some strong influence had been exerted in his behalf.

It was understood that this influence was exerted by the faculty in order to gain the effect of having such a prominent student back in the yard.

After his graduation, Mr. Derby made an extended tour of Europe, and at its completion settled down to the study of his father's profession, and bids fair to equal the reputation built up by his father as a specialist in eye affections.

Dr. Derby was president of the class of 1903, and graduated with honors with 600 other students, according to Bedal. He was a member of the varsity team and competed in the intercollegiate rowing races, and played halfback in the football team while he attended college.

He was quite, modest, and unassuming, Bedal said, but always was one of the most loyal participants in athletic sports at the college and was one of the liveliest at social entertainments.

He was graduated from the academic course at Harvard, and studied medicine after leaving that school, Bedal said. He is a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York.

ST. LOUIS FRIENDS PRAISE DR. DERBY

Known as "Fine Fellow," They Say, and Received Highest Class Honor.

Classmates of Dr. Derby who now live in St. Louis say that he is a "fine fellow," and one whom former President Roosevelt may be proud to have as a son-in-law.

William S. Bedal, an attorney in the Third National Bank Building, who was a fellow member with Dr. Derby in the graduating class of 1903 at Harvard, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that Dr. Derby was so highly regarded by his classmates that he was made first marshal of the class at the commence-

TAKE THIS MAN'S ADVICE

TRY THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY

It always gives me pleasure to recommend anything that is right and so I feel it my duty to herald the praises of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

For years I was troubled with kidney disease and it was so intense that I was bedridden for days at a time. I gave up all hope and doctors for miles around gave me no help. Incidentally I tried several patent remedies and at last tried Swamp-Root. From the first it gave me relief and it was no time before I was able to be up and around and now I am perfectly well and able to work as I used to before my terrible sickness.

So now let me thank you for your wonderful discovery and take this opportunity to recommend it to all who suffer from kidney troubles.

Yours very truly,
WALTER SHIRVER,
Hope, Ark.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 25th of March, 1912.
A. V. WARE, Notary Public.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do for You

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure to mention the St. Louis Daily Post-Dispatch. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

Ease That Sore, Tight Chest! MUSTEROLE Does It!

Rub MUSTEROLE on your chest briskly, and you will be amazed at the blessed relief you will feel right away. It prevents pneumonia.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Simply rub it on. No plaster necessary. Better than mustard plaster and positively does not blister.

Thousands who use MUSTEROLE will tell what relief it gives from Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsilitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chilblains, Frosted Feet and Colds (it prevents Pneumonia).

At your druggist's in 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Accept no substitute. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c to the Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and we will mail you a jar, postage prepaid.

MYRA GRETY, Salt Lake City, Utah—"I have used Musterole to my greatest satisfaction for coughs, colds, etc. I am a nurse and recommend it."

PAROCHIAL RESIDENCE IS ROBBED OF $299

Burglars who forced a dining room window of the parochial residence of St. Aloysius Catholic Church, at 5608 N. Magnolia avenue, Thursday night, took $221 in bills and $78 in change from a desk in the Rev. Father Francis Brand's room on the second floor. The desk was pried open with a chisel or a jimmy.

Father Brand discovered the robbery when he returned from a parochial visit at 11:30 p. m.

Mrs. Elizabeth Knease, the housekeeper, told the police that she returned home at 10:30 and there was no evidence that burglars had been in the house at that time.

Jewelry Concern's Stockholders Elect Officers.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Hess & Culbertson Jewelry Co., Seventh and St. Charles streets, the following officers were elected: George J. Hess, president; Stephen D. Culbertson, vice-president; Leo J. Vogt, treasurer, and Samuel E. Bamber, secretary. The new treasurer is the son of Albert Vogt, a successful jeweler of Montgomery City, and entered the employ of Hess & Culbertson in 1902.

Captain With $15,000 Starving.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 14.—Capt. Thomas Ross, a well-known river man, was found in a shanty boat desperately ill from privation and exposure. He had been missing for several days. In an old trunk searchers found a bank book showing deposits of $15,573.

HAIR TURNING GRAY OR FALLING? JUST MIX SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can positively tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments. By morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.—ADV.

RESCUERS BLAMED FOR FAILURE TO SAVE SCOTT PARTY

Some Members of the British South Pole Expedition Believe That a More Vigorous Effort to Relieve Southern Squad Would Have Prevented Tragedy.

STRAINED RELATIONS AMONG SURVIVORS

Petty Officer Evans Said to Have Become Insane Because of Privations—Scott Put Comrades in Bags, Wrote Diary, and Died.

By Associated Press.

CHRIST CHURCH, N. Z., Feb. 14.—Intense bitterness prevails among a section of the members of the late Capt. Robert F. Scott's Antarctic expedition because the rescue party did not push south vigorously on its march to the relief of the explorers who had been to the South Pole. The belief is expressed that Capt. Scott, Dr. Edward A. Wilson and Lieut. H. R. Bowers, the last three to die, could have been saved if this had been done.

The relations between Edward R. G. R. Evans and Dr. Edward L. Atkinson are said to be very much strained.

Some of the survivors say that Petty Officer Evans became insane owing to privations he had undergone and was occasionally very violent. He declined to help pull a sledge and his condition became so serious that he had to be carried. Scott said that Evans was the last man he expected to fail him, and that his loss was a great blow to the expedition.

Capt. Scott's reference in his notes to an unaccountable shrinkage of fuel at the depots surprises the supporting parties, who deny that they made any undue use of it.

Scott's Diary of His Trip to Pole His Pillow in Death.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Cable messages from Lyttelton, New Zealand, have brought the long-looked for particulars of the finding of the bodies of Capt. Scott and two of the four men who perished with him on his return from the South Pole.

It also developed that there was no particular reason for leaving the bodies of Scott, Wilson and Bowers in the tent where they died, except that Surgeon Atkinson's rescue party thought it better to leave them where they were. The bodies could have been taken to the coast without great difficulty, Commander Evans says.

"It is possible that an expedition will go to the Antarctic next summer to recover the bodies of Scott, Wilson and Bowers.

Evans and Atkinson, it is now learned, are not on cordial terms. This is believed to be connected with the fact that Atkinson, in his first movement toward the point where the head of the expedition was then in need, turned back after going 80 miles. Evans, when asked about this and other matters bearing on the possibility of rescue, referred his questioner to Atkinson, adding that if Atkinson said anything he (Evans) would then have something to say. Atkinson did not reply to the questions put to him.

Capt. Scott, it is stated by the members of the Atkinson expedition, was apparently the last of the three men in the tent, 11 miles from a supply depot, to die from starvation and cold.

The bodies of Wilson and Bowers were found in their sleeping bags, but that of Scott was resting against the last pole, indicating that he had put the other two away in the receptacles and had then worked on his diary and his last message to the public. The diary was found behind his head against the last pole, in the position of a pillow.

Cross on the Cairn.

As recorded in a previous dispatch, the search party found their tent on Nov. 12, 1912. It was half covered with snow and the sledge with their gear was completely covered. The tent was well spread, with an inner tent placed on poles. The bodies having been identified, the inner tent was placed over them, a large cairn of snow erected, and a cross placed on the top.

Surgeon Atkinson states that no symptoms of scurvy existed.

All the records of the southern party having been collected, the whole search proceeded 23 miles south to search for the body of Capt. Oates, but no trace of it was found.

Near the spot of his departure from his comrades a cross and cairn were erected and a record was left on the cairn.

The account of the attainment of the South Pole from Capt. Scott's personal diary states that the first day at the pole was cloudy, with a mock sun. The second day, Jan. 18, was clear and the sun was visible. Sights were taken, for which purpose Capt. Scott used a four-inch theodolite. Capt. Amundsen used a sextant with an artificial horizon. The fixing of the pole by the two explorers differed by only half a mile, practically locating the same spot. Scott's observations gave latitude 89 degrees 59½ minutes. The party marched the extra half mile, taking with them their motor sledge, and there planted the Union Jack.

Dogtracks Picked Up.

Near the pole they had previously picked up Norwegian dog tracks and later followed these to the Norwegian camp, which was situated within three miles of the pole. The track of the Norwegian dogs was obliterated by snow at intervals. The party found all the records and the gear left by Capt. Amundsen.

Amundsen, from two directions, marked the pole, gave evidence of a slight [illegible] since Amundsen erected his tent. The temperature at the pole was about 20 degrees below zero. The surface, unlike that of the Barrier, was soft, with no crust. It was found that snow collected from any depth on melting was also unlike the Barrier snow, and gave very little water.

Ten photographs of Capt. Scott and his party were taken at the pole. The films were recovered and developed at Cape Evans, together with two photographs of the Norwegian tent as Capt. Scott's party found it.

The return journey over the plateau was marked by a series of good marches in medium weather. The temperature averaged between 20 and 30 degrees below zero, and the marches varied up to 18 miles daily to the top of the Beardmore glacier. Both the depots on the plateau, one 89 degrees south, and the other under Mount Darwin, 85:7 south, were secured.

Before descending the Beardmore glacier Dr. Wilson and Lieut. Bowers visited Buckley Island and climbed to a large nunatak at the top of the glacier. Here they spent some time making a large collection of fossil-bearing sandstone and coal in quantities. The fossils should finally settle the age of the latest sedimentary deposits yet found in Victoria Land, and certainly are the best obtained in this quadrant.

Leaving Buckley Island and going down the glacier, they passed Mount Kinsey, a magnificent dolomite peak having an altitude of 11,000 feet and forming an admirable steering point. When they reached a small depot under Cloud Maker Mountain they made another halt for geological investigations. From the side of Cloud Maker Mountain fossils of much greater age were found in the limestone and a total of 35 pounds of geological specimens were carefully packed.

These specimens were taken forward by the party to their last camp, and are now in the possession of the expedition. From Cloud Maker Mountain to the foot of Beardmere Glacier the surfaces encountered by the party consisted of the same deep snow as on the way up, and this fact, together with bad weather, severely hampered their march. The weather was abnormally thick, with snow crystals falling, the surrounding land being only occasionally visible.

Capt. Scott dates the beginning of the failure of Petty Officer Edgar Evans from the time of reaching the pole. He was a great anxiety to them on the plateau, and in the descent of Beardmere Glacier, when the party got among very rough ice, Evans fell, injuring his head and sustaining a serious concussion. During the whole of the descent his condition delayed the party and their surplus food gradually diminished.

Evans in a Collapse.

On Feb. 17, while on the march, Evans' foot worked out of his ski and he was compelled to fall out to readjust it. The party moved along and, seeing he was not following, they camped and cooked a meal, anticipating Evans would soon reach the tent. When the meal was ready and he had not arrived, the party went back and found him in a state of collapse. He bravely tried to go forward but had to be placed on a sledge and died a natural death within two hours of reaching the tent. This delay, as Capt. Scott stated in his diary, greatly weakened the party and made an inroad into their surplus provisions, which was serious in view of the fact that the season was unduly advanced.

INSCRIPTIONS AT SCENE OF DEATH OF BRITISH EXPLORERS

A VERY GALLANT GENTLEMAN.
Capt. R. E. G. Oates,
Inniskillen Dragoons,
Who on the return from the Pole in March, 1912, willingly walked to his death in a blizzard to try and save his comrades beset by hardship.

LEFT THIS CROSS AND CAIRN ERECTED
CAPT. R. F. SCOTT, C. V. O., R. N.,
DR. E. A. WILSON,
LIEUT. H. R. BOWERS, R. N.
As a slight token to perpetuate their gallant and successful attempt to reach the Pole.
This they did on Jan. 17, 1912, after the Norwegians had already done so on Dec. 14, 1911.
Also to commemorate their two gallant comrades, Capt. R. E. G. Oates of Inniskillen Dragoons, who walked to his death in a blizzard willingly about 20 miles south of this place to try and save his comrades beset by hardship; and Petty Officer Edgar Evans, who died at the foot of the Beardmore Glacier.
The Lord gave and the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord.

MEMORIAL TO THE SCOTT PARTY

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The British nation today paid its last sad respects to the memory of Capt. Robert F. Scott and his heroic companions, who died in the wilds of the Antarctic after reaching the South Pole. A great memorial service was held in the Cathedral of St Paul's, in the center of the metropolis. It was attended by people of every walk in life, from King George, in the uniform of an Admiral of the fleet, to laborers.

The King, surrounded by a brilliantly uniformed staff, occupied a seat beneath the great dome. The other parts of the cathedral were filled by the general public.

Only a few seats had been reserved for the royal party, which comprised representatives of Queen Mother Alexandra and of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. Premier Asquith, with all the Cabinet ministers, was present, as were many members of the foreign diplomatic corps, including Irwin M. Laughlin, secretary of the United States Embassy, and Commander Powers Symington, American naval attache.

SICK WOMAN ENDS LIFE

Mrs. Louisa Sohm Despondent Because of Ill Health.

Despondent because of poor health, Mrs. Louisa Sohm, 73 years old, a widow, ended her life Thursday afternoon by swallowing carbolic acid at the home of her son, George L. Sohm, 4180 Concordia avenue, with whom she lived. The body was found in her room by her daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Sohm complained frequently of ill health, relatives told the police, and Thursday told her daughter-in-law that she could not stand it much longer.

You are missing the opportunity of your life if you don't get one of these pianos during this co-operative sale

Both stores open evenings until 9 o'clock.

The pianos for this co-operative sale were personally selected at the factory by Mr. P. E. Conroy, our president, and upon arrival are being tested and inspected by Mr. Charles Galloway, conductor of Apollo and Morning Choral Clubs.

Copyright, 1912, by Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

WE KNEW this sale would be a success. The manufacturers, (Marshall & Wendell) who are co-operating with us in this sale, knew it would be a success. We knew our prices were right and that our proposition was right. But we were not expecting such overwhelming success. We expected a shower, but we did not expect a downpour. The plain facts are—we have taken orders for twice as many instruments as we had expected to sell up to this time. And this is told for but one purpose, and one purpose only, and that is—to advise those who have already told us they would buy later during the sale—do not put off too long.

Copyright, 1912, by Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

The success of this sale has surpassed all expectations

Let us be fair with each other. Let us get right down to the "meat" of this proposition, by asking a few questions:

When, if ever, do you again expect to get a piano like the Marshall & Wendell which is really worth 350 dollars for less than this co-operative price—248 dollars and 75 cents?

When, if ever, do you again expect to buy a piano of such known high-grade upon such easy terms as 5 dollars as an initial payment and the remainder at the rate of 1 dollar and 25 cents a week?

Do you ever again expect to have an opportunity to buy a piano which is so strongly guaranteed?

Do you ever expect, in buying a piano, to get more privileges, such as getting your money back or exchanging your piano after you have tried it for a whole year? And, do you expect to get a more liberal agreement—taking everything into account—than this co-operative agreement, which we have been describing from day to day.

We can answer these questions for you, with a decided NO. NEVER. A more fair, square, or liberal proposition will never be offered on which to put a piano in your home. It is as we say at the top of this ad—"You are missing the opportunity of your life if you don't get one of these pianos during this co-operative sale."

The whole co-operative plan gone over so you will know it as we know it

¶ You get a piano which is worth and sells regularly at three hundred and fifty dollars, for two hundred and forty-eight dollars and seventy-five cents, saving you at the outset one hundred and one dollars and twenty-five cents.

¶ When you finish paying for your piano, if bought in the usual way, you still owe from twenty-five to thirty-five dollars interest. Through this co-operative plan, when you have paid your two hundred and forty-eight dollars and seventy-five cents, you have finished paying. There are no further payments to be made, either on account of interest or for any other reason.

¶ Instead of paying twenty to twenty-five dollars as a first payment and ten, twelve or fifteen dollars a month as you will in a regular way, during this co-operative sale you pay but five dollars to join in this associate movement and then but one dollar and twenty-five cents a week.

¶ You get the strongest guarantee ever put on a piano; a joint guarantee signed by the manufacturers—Marshall & Wendell—and ourselves, giving you protection for five years that is as safe as a government bond.

¶ You get the privilege of returning your piano at the end of a thirty days' trial and getting your money back.

¶ Within one year from the day you get your piano, through this co-operative plan, you may exchange it for any reason whatsoever, without so much as a penny's loss.

¶ All payments remaining unpaid are voluntarily canceled in event of your death—thus leaving the piano free of encumbrance to your family.

¶ You get through this co-operative plan an opportunity to earn cash dividends for each and every week's time the life of the co-operative agreement of one hundred and ninety-five weeks is shortened. Through this privilege it is possible for you to earn cash dividends, amounting in all to twenty-nine dollars and twenty-five cents.

¶ You are given opportunity to secure others to co-operate in this plan. This still further reduces the cost of your instrument.

¶ All of the features of this co-operative plan are carried out in offering player-pianos, with the single exception that the terms on player-pianos are two dollars a week instead of—as on the piano—one dollar and twenty-five cents a week.

CALLS TAXICAB SYSTEM "WHITE SLAVE" ADJUNCT

Woman Writer Says Cabmen in New York Are a "Brotherhood of Treachery."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Miss Sofia Irene Loeb of New York Thursday night told the League of American Pen Women that the basis of the "white slave" trade in the large cities is the taxicab and cab systems in vogue. To correct the alleged abuses, Miss Loeb would have such vehicles recognized as common carriers, with strict regulation, the abolition of private cab stands and the establishment of a maximum taxicab fare of 25 cents a mile.

"The cabmen in New York especially," she said, "have a brotherhood of treachery so that it is almost impossible for victims to obtain redress."

TRAVELING MEN AND ACTORS ASK MAIL ON SUNDAY

Billy B. Van Heads Movement to Petition for Resumption of Service.

Two hundred thousand traveling salesmen and 50,000 persons engaged in the theatrical business have signed petitions which are to be sent to Postmaster-General Hitchcock, asking the resumption of Sunday delivery of mail to hotels and theaters. Billy B. Van, the comedian, who this week is in St. Louis, is chairman of a special committee appointed at a meeting of commercial travelers held Oct. 6 at the Hotel Ponchartrain, Detroit, to circulate the petitions.

Copies of the petitions have been sent to all the hotels in the United States, to be posted for signatures. The signed petitions are sent to Van, who keeps the members of his company busy getting them in shape for forwarding to the Postmaster-General.

The petitions say the order cancelling the Sunday delivery has worked a distinct hardship on commercial travelers, those engaged in theatrical pursuits and others who have to travel. The Postmaster-General is urged to issue an order to all Postmasters to continue the delivery of mail on Sunday to hotels and theaters and that all employes of the Postoffice Department be granted compensatory time off for any duty performed on Sunday.

A letter has been sent to President-elect Wilson and to the Governors of all the states, bringing the movement to their attention.

An answer has been received from Wilson's secretary, who says the matter will be brought to the President-elect's attention as soon as possible and expresses the belief that he will favor it.

Gov. Carey of Wyoming, Ammons of Colorado, Eberhart of Minnesota, Ferris of Michigan, Miller of Delaware, Clarke of Iowa, Hains of Maine and Bass of New Hampshire have written indorsing the movement. It is hoped to enlist the active aid of Speaker Champ Clark.

Society

MRS. WILLIAM H. SCUDDER of West Pine boulevard and her daughters, Misses Gladys and Maude Cupples-Scudder, have gone to Florida for the season there at the fashionable witner resorts. They will return for a brief stay before sailing for Europe to travel until summer, when they will open their cottage at Magnolia, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Potter of 42 Westmoreland place are spending a week in New York and will return Sunday.

Miss Anita Gaebler of 5336 Cabanne place has gone to Northampton, Mass., for a visit, and is expected home late next week.

Miss Anna Wright Benoist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Benoist of Berlin avenue, returned from New Orleans where she went for Mardi Gras.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Brinsmade, of 4429 Morgan street, who are making a tour of the South, are spending several weeks at Hotel Galvez, Galveston, Tex.

The Saturday Evening Dancing Club of Webster Groves will give a fancy dress mask ball at the Monday Club Saturday evening, Feb. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Allyn arrived Thursday evening from the South, where they went on their honeymoon to spend a day with Mrs. Allyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Musick, of 5112 Washington boulevard. Mrs. Allyn was Miss Nellie Musick, whose wedding Feb. 1 was one of the interesting affairs of the day.

Recent additions to the St. Louis colony registered at the Arlington Hotel, Hot Springs, Ark., include W. H. Bixby, Joseph H. Wear, George B. Evans and W. M. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Wass of 1926 Louisiana avenue, Hugh R. O'Donnell of 4229 West Pine boulevard, Abe Cohn of 5800 Von Versen avenue, Benjamin C. Newman, Sig Wolfort and Zack Prince are registered at the Eastman Hotel. James Cunningham, Peter Wells, Joseph Eagan and Otto Richter reached the Spa Saturday for a two weeks' visit on their way home from New Orleans, where they attended the Mardi Gras celebration.

Mrs. J. O. Sanderson of 5363 Blaine avenue has as her guest Miss Besse Elrod of Montgomery City, Mo.

Mrs. Max Stern of 5128 Raymond avenue gave a bridge party Wednesday afternoon to about thirty guests. The prizes were hand-painted china done by the hostess.

Mrs. John R. Towler of the Aberdeen Apartments is in Mount Pleasant, Tex., and will return next week.

WILSON'S SECRET SERVICE GUARD IS NOW 4; WAS 2

Government Watchers Over Safety of President-Elect Now on Duty All the Time.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 14.—For some reason, kept a secret, the guard of secret service men with President-elect Wilson was doubled today. Two operatives have been with the Governor almost constantly since election day.

The guard of four permits a watch over the President-elect throughout the 24 hours. Hitherto there had been no one on duty at the Wilson home after midnight.

The secret service men have a frame shack, with a stove and chairs, opposite the Wilson home, and through its many windows they can see approaches from every side.

MEDIATORS STILL TRY TO AVERT FIREMENS' STRIKE

Call for Men to Go Out Is Ready but Carter Denies He Has Decided to Issue It.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Further conferences are to be held today with the Federal mediators regarding the deadlock between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the 54 Eastern railroads on the question of higher wages and better working conditions.

President Carter of the firemen denies that he has decided on a strike call, although it is known that the call is ready.

Judge Knapp of the Commerce Court and G. W. W. Hanger, Acting Commissioner of Labor, were to go over the situation with both sides today.

Nun Perishes in Flames.

OTTAWA, Canada, Feb. 14.—Fire early this morning destroyed the annex of the Scholastic of the Oblate Fathers. Sister Ste. Simon, a nun, fainted when trying to escape and perished in the flames. Twelve other nuns were rescued by firemen.

FOR A SOUR STOMACH, INDIGESTION, GAS OR DYSPEPSIA—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.—ADV.

Mrs. Covington and Mr. Holscher to share feature honors at this week's Recital at Aeolian Hall

Mr. Serge L. Halman will accompany these singers with the Pianola Player-Piano — he will also play several solos on the Pianola and Aeolian Pipe Organ — admission without charge

MRS. O. T. COVINGTON, CONTRALTO. MR. E. A. HOLSCHER, BARITONE.

Mrs. O. T. Covington, contralto, and E. A. Holscher, baritone, are this week's soloists at the always popular Pianola Recital. Both Mrs. Covington and Mr. Holscher have voices of unusually beautiful quality and it is probable that Saint Louis' music-loving set will turn out in great numbers to hear these artists sing at Aeolian Hall tomorrow afternoon.

Serge L. Halman will open the program with the brilliant Euryanthe Overture, by Von Weber, on the Aeolian Pipe Organ. Mr. Halman also will play several solos on the Pianola Player-Piano and will accompany the singers with this remarkable instrument.

After the recital the audience will get an opportunity to examine and play on the Pianola Player-Piano themselves. This is the wonderful instrument which makes it possible for anyone, even if without musical training, to play any music he wishes.

The recital starts promptly tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Aeolian Company invites everyone to attend—the admission is without charge. The Recital will be held in the Recital Hall at Aeolian Hall, 1004 Olive street.

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After a Few Doses Are Taken.

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Croxone, cures all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drives it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.

It is the most wonderful remedy ever made for restoring the lifeless organs to health and strength and ridding the system of every particle of uric acid, and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly cure such conditions.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.—ADVERTISEMENT.

WEDS AT 72 AFTER 100 WOMEN PROPOSE TO HIM

Man, Reconciled to First Wife on Her Death Bed After 25 Years, Marries Woman, 58.

Albert B. Walker, 72 years old, of 1600 St. Ange avenue, and Mrs. Louis McHale, 58, of 1538 Nebraska avenue, were married Thursday at Clayton by Justice of the Peace Werremeyer. They were taken to the county seat by Mrs. L. Porter, of 5175 Delmar boulevard, in her automobile.

Walker was for 35 years a bookkeeper at the city hospital. He has been retired for nine years. He is an old soldier, having been a member of the Fortieth Missouri Regiment.

His first wife died in December, 1911. They had been estranged for 25 years, but were reconciled when Mrs. Walker was on her deathbed. After her death Walker went to Mrs. McHale's home as a boarder. He says he had proposals from a hundred other women.

Mrs. McHale had been married twice before. She lived 21 years with her second husband, but for nine years they did not speak. She obtained a divorce last December.

The couple will live at 1538 Nebraska avenue.

JURORS TEST HOT WATER ON WRISTS IN SURGICAL SUIT

Unable to Agree Whether or Not Woman Could Have Been Burned After Operation.

Jurors in the damage suit of Mrs. Etta R. Hodges against Dr. Clarence M. Nicholson submitted to a test in Judge McQuillin's Court Thursday to ascertain if they could be burned by steaming hot water as it dripped through a hose from a glass jar. Each juror held his hand under the hose so that the water dripped upon it at the wrist.

They made the test without flinching. Then they retired to consider the verdict. They were unable to agree by 6 p. m. and were excused until Friday morning.

Mrs. Hodges, wife of a physician at Nokomis, Ill., sued Dr. Nicholson for $15,000, alleging that she was seriously scalded by a hot saline solution administered to her after a surgical operation Sept. 6, 1910.

The solution was used as a sanitary precaution by a nurse employed by Dr. Nicholson. It was alleged the nurse was careless and allowed the water to stream into the wound. Mrs. Hodges was under the influence of an anesthetic.

The defense was that the water running through the hose cooled off sufficiently to prevent a serious burn. Dr. Nicholson brought the appliance used in the operation to court and had the nurse heat some water to a temperature of 160 degrees, the temperature, he said, of the water used. The water was then allowed to drip through the hose on the hands of the jurors.

Dr. Nicholson and the lawyers in the case, F. H. Bacon for the plaintiff and William R. Gentry for the defendant, also submitted to the test. Dr. Nicholson, in the presence of the jury, held the hose over the back of one of his ears, which, he said, is the tenderest part of the body, and allowed the hot water to pour over it.

DAY'S REGISTRATION IS ESTIMATED AT 10,000

Approximately 10,000 persons registered Thursday for the municipal primaries, according to Chairman Drabelle of the Election Board, who based his estimate Friday on the returns from 146 precincts, which showed a total registration of 2970. There are 474 precincts in the city. Those who registered are either persons entitled to their first vote or persons who have moved since the November election. The Election Comissioners have fixed March 27 as registration day for voters who were out of the city Thursday.

Clerks began a canvass of every precinct in the city Friday morning to correct the registration lists for the spring election. The name of any person who cannot be found at the place from which he is registered will be stricken from the books.

FIVE WEST VIRGINIA LEGISLATORS INDICTED

Special Grand Jury Holds Lawmakers for Bribery in Senatorial Election.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 14.—The special grand jury summoned by Judge Henry K. Black, to consider the charges of bribery in connection with the United States senatorial campaign, this afternoon indicted five West Virginia legislators. The indicted are:

Delegates David Hill, H. F. Asbury, S. U. G. Young and Rath Duff, and Senator B. A. Smith.

The men were charged with feloniously receiving bribes. There were four counts in each indictment. They were also indicted for a misdemeanor, but the exact charge was not made public.

The grand jury was prepared this afternoon to consider additional evidence.

The men indicted today were arrested last Tuesday afternoon by Sheriff Hill in the presence of Prosecutor Townsend after they had come from a room in which it was alleged they had each been paid for voting for a certain candidate for United States Senator. The marked money, it was alleged, was found in their pockets.

GRAFT WITNESS SHOOTS AT WIFE, KILLS DAUGHTER

New York Gambler Misses Woman, but Two Bullets Pierce Body of Child in Bed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—James Purcell, the veteran gambler who testified before the Aldermanic Committee last week that he had paid police graft over a period of 17 years, quarreled today with his wife in their apartment and began shooting.

Mrs. Purcell fainted but wild bullets struck their 13-year-old daughter Agnes, who lay covered in bed, killing her almost instantly. Thinking that he had murdered both his wife and child, Purcell surrendered to the police and was locked up.

The gambler was so hysterical when he staggered into a police station that he was unable to give a coherent account of the affair. He and his wife had quarreled nearly all night, he sobbed, until he at last lost control of himself and rushed at her with a revolver. Four shots were fired, two of which struck the girl. One pierced her breast and right arm; another plowed through her left arm. Her body was taken to the morgue.

The tragedy may have an important bearing on the graft investigation now being pushed by District Attorney Whitman. Purcell's testimony, given last Friday, resulted in the suspension of two police captains, and his story was being counted on as the basis of indictments. With him in a cell charged with homicide his testimony may be invalidated.

Whitman will hold a conference with the prisoner with a view to determining whether there is back of the tragedy anything that does not appear on the surface.

OVER 53 MILLION SHOES WERE MADE IN ST. LOUIS IN 1912

Value of Shipments Reached Total of $64,610,141, a Gain of $3,582,688.

More shoes were made by St. Louis factories in 1912 than ever before in any one year; the gain of three and a half million dollars in sales over the previous year was the largest annual increase ever made here, and St. Louis has retained its standing as the largest shoe market in the world, according to statistics for the year gathered by the Shoe and Leather Gazette of St. Louis, a standard trade publication.

The shipment of shoes from St. Louis in 1912 amounted to $64,610,141.31, the report says, a gain over 1911 of $3,582,688.43. Fourteen manufacturers made 26,525,823 pairs of shoes during the year in the 55 factories operated in St. Louis and nearby towns.

Within the last two years the St. Louis manufacturers have proved they can produce shoe styles in advance of many other markets. Many exclusive new fashions were developed in the St. Louis market in 1912. Up to two years ago the St. Louis houses confined their product mostly to staple shoes.

Strike Affected Output Total.

The gain in sales which sets a new annual record would have been greater, the report states, had it not been for a strike of several months in one of the largest houses, and that another concern discontinued a contract it had with the Government the year before for $750,000 worth of shoes.

A great change in the buying methods of retailers has been noticed in the St. Louis market in the last year, the report says, which is due to the rapid change in the styles of shoes. Formerly a style would last a whole season, and sometimes for three or four years. At present, the life of some styles is not more than two or three months, wholesale dealers say.

The result has been that retailers in the St. Louis trade territory buy smaller stocks, buy oftener, and do not place orders very far in advance of the seasons. A comparatively few pairs of each size and width are purchased, and frequent mail orders are sent to replenish the stock as it is needed.

Central Situation Is Vital.

Rapid package car service enables St. Louis houses to make quick deliveries, and the central location geographically of St. Louis gives wholesalers an advantage by which they can hold this trade against the markets of the world. In many instances mail orders are received and the goods reached the retailer before his order would reach a more distant market, according to the report.

Several St. Louis wholesalers are specializing in high-grade shoes and are making their sales by special salesmen who stop only at the large cities and show a special line. In this way the St. Louis market is gaining an enviable reputation for high-grade shoes and is making inroads in other trade territories in competition with other larger markets.

WOMEN'S HATS TO BE SMALL, TILT TO SIDE, FIT CLOSELY

USES ACTRESS AS MODEL

Women Buyers Listen to Lectures on the Last Guess in Feminine Headwear.

Women will wear their eyes and their own hair this spring.

That is to say, the new spring hats will not cover the wearers' eyes, as those of last year did, but, nevertheless, will come so far down over the head and fit so closely that there will be no room for switches, rats and puffs.

This ought to be authoritative, coming as it does from Monsieur Ora Cne. (Because of the shortage of vowels, the best we can do with that name is "C-nay," pausing an instant between the "C" and the "nay" as between the steps of the hesitation waltz.)

Monsieur Cne is a Parisian and a designer of hats. What he doesn't know about new and correct styles in millinery wouldn't make a pamphlet of respectable size. At the Rosenthal-Sloan Millinery Co., Washington avenue and Seventeenth street, he is lecturing to buyers, salesmen and out-of-town milliners on how to build, trim and display the kinds of headdress father will pay for this season but will not wear.

Actress Serves as Model.

The lectures are illustrated by a living model in the person of Mlle. Olga Petrova, an actress who has resplendent copper-colored hair, and who is worth looking at, even when she isn't acting. Mlle. Petrova is appearing twice daily at a vaudeville theater, but she finds time each afternoon to visit the millinery establishment and demonstrate why the high cost of wearing beautiful hats is not without its redeeming features.

The predominant color in the spring millinery will be "Nell rose." The fashion makers have wished the responsibility for that fad on Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the President-elect. It happens that she is known to her relatives and intimate friends as "Nell," and that she recently bought a rose-colored dress. What better reason could an industrious fashion maker want for devising a phrase that will get the money?

When Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth of the present was Miss Alice Roosevelt of the White House, the "Alice blue" fad was attributed to her; and the fashion makers of the present administration followed up the lead by making Miss Helen Taft an excuse for a "Helen pink" craze.

"Nell rose," Monsieur Cne explained to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "is the exact shade of outside petals of American Beauty roses."

Persons who have political prejudices or other reasons for not liking "Nell rose" will have a wide range of colors to select from and still be stylish, says Monsieur Cne. Any shade of pink, from the new color down to the lightest, will be fashionable, he says.

Black and white also will be popular and "coque de rogue" will run a close second to "Nell rose." "Coque de rogue" is described by Monsieur Cne as a kind of burnt orange color, whatever that may be.

Striking effects will be produced in the new millinery, says Monsieur Cne, by very small but very brilliant bits of color placed against black or some other deep hue.

Much to the relief of certain writers, hats can, with propriety, be set "rakishly" or "jauntily" on women's heads when the new styles appear. The helmet shape will predominate, but it will be pulled down over the right side of the head so as to cover the hair, while the hair will not be concealed on the left side.

No Room for Switches.

Although M. Cne declares the right style of hat will not conceal a woman's eyes, he makes it plain that the hat will fit too closely to permit the use of any woman who has very little hair will be able to laugh at the woman who has a massive "crowd of glory," for she can wear the new hats more nearly as they should be worn. Women who have lots of hair will have to comb it down smoothly and roll it as compactly as possible at the back of the head, M. Cne asserts.

Large hats positively will not do this spring, he declares, since the season has been assigned to the small, close-fitting models exclusively. Big decorations also are out of the running, small imitation fruits and flowers having taken their places for the time being.

One of the popular styles will be a small hat with a roll brim and a soft crown of satin which will conform exactly to the outlines of the head. The wearer of this style may choose between a small fruit or flower decoration in front and a litle plume or stick-up at the back of the head. One form of ornament will be known as the "antennae," because of its resemblance to the antennae or "feelers" attached to the heads of certain insects and lobsters—the kind of lobsters that live in the ocean.

Some Bulgarian Effects.

Brocaded crepe de chines and flowered chiffons will be used extensively for crown coverings, M. Cne says. This affords another opportunity for the introduction of something novel, namely "Bulgarian effects" in coloring. That means that reds, greens, blues, yellows and other shades will be mixed into one blend, producing an army of color allies which is expected to march against the sense of vision with noticeable results.

Aside from these features and a hundred or two more which M. Cne hasn't time to enumerate, the styles in millinery this spring will be much like those of a year ago, prices included.

ACTRESS AS A MILLINERY MODEL, SHOWING HAT NOW OUT OF STYLE

OLGA PETROVA

Monsieur Cne used this hat to emphasize his statement that small hats alone are to be worn this season.

MOTHER WILL SUE CITY FOR DEATH OF SON IN HOSPITAL

NOT TOLD OF OPERATION

After Many Inquiries Was Informed Boy Had Pneumonia and Died of Empyema.

Mrs. Mollie Sheble, of 2413 Eliot avenue, whose son, Charles Anthony Sheble, three and one-half years old, died in the Infectious Disease Hospital on Jan. 22 after an operation for empyema, told Thursday the happenings leading up to the death of her child. She declared she and her husband intend to bring a damage suit against the city for the boy's death.

Empyema is defined as a collection of pus in the pleural cavity, and sometimes follows severe attacks of pneumonia.

Mrs. Sheble has placed her information in the hands of Attorney Albert E. Hausman with instructions to file suit against the city in any amount that he deems proper. Hausman said Friday that he had been denied access to the hospital records of the case and that he is in conference with the City Counsellor.

Allegations that the hospital authorities were negligent in the treatment of the child after he had been placed in the institution with measles and that the physician performed the operation without the knowledge or consent of either her or her husband, Charles Sheble, will be made by Mrs. Sheble in her petition, she said.

Had Measles at First.

"My boy was taken to the hospital Dec. 30," said Mrs. Sheble. "He had the measles, or at least that is what the city health authorities said he had, and they placarded my house with a measles sign. I went to the hospital a few days later and they told me he was practically well and that I could take him home in two or three days.

"When I went back again, I was told that Charles was seriously ill with diphtheria. My sister, Miss Nellie Ring, who lives with me, accompanied me to the hospital. We were permitted to go inside and see the little fellow. He lay in a bed with no clothes on except a thin nightgown. The window was open, and it was bitter cold outside.

"Well, I telephoned to the hospital every day, and was told that the boy was better. About Jan. 29, my husband went to the hospital, and was told that my child was dangerously ill with pneumonia. The next day the doctors operated on him without consulting us or letting us know anything about it. The child died the next day. The death certificate stated that the cause of detath was empyema. The burial certificate said measles. I don't know what was the cause of death.

Counselor Upholds City.

Attorney Hausman said that former City Counsellor Lambert Walther had written an opinion to the effect that no person had any right to examine city records for the purpose of getting evidence upon which to base a damage suit against the city.

Mr. Hausman said the present City Counsellor has written a letter supporting the opinion, and that after he had examined the opinion he would immediately bring suit to compel the hospital employes to produce the records.

Dr. C. A. Rosebrough, house physician at the Infectious Disease Hospital, said Friday that Sheble knew about the operation to be performed on his son.

"The operation was performed Wednesday," said Rosebrough. "On the previous Sunday Sheble was at the hospital. I told him the condition of his boy and that it would probably be necessary to operate. While I was explaining it to him he stopped me, saying that he knew all about it because he had had a similar operation performed on himself about ten years ago."

Nurse Tells of Boy's Case.

In a report which she read Thursday before the seventh annual meeting of the St. Louis Society for the Relief and Prevention of Tuberculosis, Mrs. E. W. Kidd, head nurse of the society, referred to the case of Charles Anthony Sheble. She states in her report that the child entered the Infectious Disease Hospital Dec. 30, as a measles patient and that by Jan. 21 he had contracted diphtheria, pneumonia and empyema.

She is quoted as saying the child was operated on without the consent of his parents and died the following day, and that the parents were not notified of the death until seven hours later.

Shutt Refuses Records.

Hospital Commissioner Shutt said that the hospital authorities would not disclose any information pertaining to the family history of the city's patients.

"Anybody can see the records showing when a person entered the hospital, the cause of death if death should result, and particulars of that nature," he said. "But we will not give out the private records of the case. We base our position in this matter on an opinion of the former City Counsellor."

Milk Prosecutions in St. Joseph.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 14.—Warrants were issued here for 74 dairymen and restaurant keepers who were charged with violating the pure milk ordinance of the city. Most of the defendants were accused of putting water in the milk.

Catarrhal Misery Disappears

Pleasant, Healing, Germ Destroying Air of Hyomei, Endorsed by Physicians, Pharmacists and Hundreds of Professional Men.

Here's a fair offer: If you purchase HYOMEI for catarrh, coughs colds, sore throat, croup or any nose or throat misery and are not satisfied get your money back.

Try the sure way. Breathe Booth's HYOMEI over the sore, germ-infected membrane, kill the germs and heal the sore spots.

Breathe through the little inhaler that comes with each $1.00 outfit five times during the day, a few minutes each time.

Booth's HYOMEI does not contain any harmful drug. It is Australian Eucalyptus combined with effective Listerian antiseptics.

When the bottle of HYOMEI that comes with your outfit is gone you can get another for 50 cents. Just breathe it—no stomach dosing.

Besides using the inhaler throughout the day for quick results thousands use the HYOMEI vapor treatment at night just before retiring. Here it is; try it; it is simply splendid:

Thoroughly heat a teacup; then fill it half full of boiling hot water. Pour into the water one-half teaspoonful of HYOMEI. (Do not stir.) Hold the cup close to the face and breathe deep into the lungs the healing, germ-destroying vapor that arises.

POPULAR PRICE THEATER TO GO UP ON FRANKLIN

Merchants Authorize $75,000 Fund for Playhouse Which Will Help the Street.

Plans for a popular price theater costing $65,000, to be erected on Franklin avenue, to aid in making that street a business and pleasure thoroughfare, were outlined Thursday at a meeting of the Franklin Avenue Improvement Association. A committee was authorized to raise a fund of $75,000 to erect the playhouse and for maintenance expenses.

The organization approved the formation of a trading stamp company by merchants of that street for the issuance of stamps to be used only on Franklin avenue.

C. A. Smith was chosen president and other officers elected are: Vice-President, Herman Mauch; secretary, A. C. Niedringhaus; treasurer, W. F. Durkham.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

April 10, 1907. JOSEPH PULITZER.

THE CALAMITY OF IT.

Wholly aside from the loss of life and money, which would be heavy, military operations in Mexico would be a calamity politically and socially. The curse of war is not confined to the field where it is carried on. It afflicts in their lives and fortunes millions of people far removed from the scenes of strife and desolation. It is the prolific parent of unwise policies and unjust laws.

Hostilities at this time would be doubly deplorable, because, after years of agitation for the removal of wrongs growing out of other wars, the people are prepared to address themselves to the work of actual reforms. If they are to be distracted now by a great enterprise of pacification or conquest south of the Rio Grande, every hope of economic progress and justice at home may as well be abandoned for a generation to come.

War widens the sluiceways of extravagance. War piles up new taxes and debts upon the old. War encourages favoritism and corruption. War is a convenient excuse for recklessness in all official relationships.

The danger of haste or violence in the present situation does not rest so much with the people as it does with the sinister elements that want to safeguard the plunder of wars long past. We shall have no tariff reform, no currency reform, no social and industrial reform, no law reform, no administrative reform, if we fight. These things are the children of peace and reason.

This new practice of exposing bribery at state capitals as it goes along, instead of at remote dates, after railroad, baking powder and senatorial lobbyists have done their work, is an innovation threatening the extinction of one of the best established legislative industries.

PERSONAL GUILT.

The proceeding against officials of the Cash Register Trust is an experiment on the largest scale yet attempted with the personal guilt theory. The verdict against 29 men shows that juries will convict when the evidence is clear and the practices complained of are unmistakably covered by the law. If the convictions are sustained on appeal and deterrent sentences are imposed, the class of trust methods by which these defendants increased the profits of their business will be outlawed more effectually than would be possible under any equity proceeding.

The penal clause of the Sherman law is splendidly vindicated in the case. The verdict brings nearer the day when the consumer will benefit by freer competition. The wider opportunity of a fair field will be restored to the little business man.

Popular election of Senators passed the Illinois House with 146 in the affirmative to Lee O'Neil Browne in the negative. It is the Lee O'Neil Brownes in our Legislatures that uniformly make the "aye" vote so large.

FIRE-ESCAPE DOORS.

There are doors on fire escapes, opening outward as they should, but which, when opened on lower stories, completely block the descent of persons from the upper stories who may be trying to escape. A new downtown theater seating many thousands is equipped with such doors. A crowd pouring out of a lower story onto a fire escape so equipped would, by holding the door wide open, completely bar the descent of those hurrying down from above. The Building Commissioner should see that this defect is remedied.

Dr. Cook is strangely quiet, considering the chance for further publicity given him by the news from the Antarctic.

FIRST ARMAMENT LIMITATION.

Admiral von Tirpitz's announcement in Berlin that his country is prepared to accept Winston Churchill's suggestion of last year for a joint naval program providing 10 German warships of the first class to every 16 British ships promises a solution of the most stubborn question before the last Hague conference. The plan would just about maintain the present ratio of strength in battleships between British and German navies, the former having 47 and the latter 27. Other elements are ignored. British naval expenditures now total $220,427,000 to Germany's $111,254,000, and British naval strength in active men is 136,000 to Germany's 35,000.

As the first international arrangement on naval armaments outside of some small countries in South America and elsewhere, the working out of the plan will have interest for the world. Some of the states in the old North German confederation were so small that the quota they were called on to furnish to the joint army was the embarrassing quota of one-half of a foot soldier, fully equipped. Difficulties as to fractional battleships in executing the joint naval program will be more easily adjusted.

It is an agreement, not on absolute, but only on proportional programs, but, of course, looks to a limitation of armaments. Why should England ruin itself by building more than eight battleships in a given term of years, if Germany in the same period builds only five? It is announced just in time to show the shallowness of the revived talk in our own Congress about a two-battleship and even a three-battleship program.

ANTI-HOME RULE PRETEXTS.

The latest scheme devised by the opponents of St. Louis home rule to defeat the amended Business Men's League bills in the State Legislature is a proposal to submit the question of home rule to the people of St. Louis.

Certainly, the supporters of home rule would not be adverse to submitting the question to the voters of St. Louis, if their voice would settle the matter. The Post-Dispatch would welcome a plebiscite under any circumstances which would assure a complete measure of home rule in the event of a favorable vote. Undoubtedly it would receive an overwhelming majority.

But St. Louis expects to vote for home rule in the right way. The election of a Board of Freeholders to draft a new charter has been provided for. The new charter, reorganizing the city government, unquestionably will make provision for municipal control of police, excise and elections. The charter will be voted on as soon as it is prepared for submission. But its provisions for home rule would be invalid until the Legislature, by enactment, grants St. Louis the power to control these offices. Home rule provisions would be inoperative for at least two years unless the Legislature acts at this session.

The proposed test vote, if submitted at a special election, would cost the city $65,000; and, if submitted at a general election, would postpone home rule for two years. It would accomplish no practical results.

The manifest object of these proposals, coming from opponents of home rule, is to confuse the public mind, confuse the minds of legislators and supply pretexts for the Democratic administration to defeat home rule measures in the Legislature and thus evade the pledges of the Democratic party.

We cherish the hope that in urging these devices for evasion and delay Gov. Major's local organ is speaking for itself and not for him and the Democratic administration; that he and his party associates are not trying to evade their home rule pledges by questioning whether St. Louis wants what they solemnly promised before election, and whether their promises were constitutional. We reject the intimations that Gov. Major would be guilty of such underhand bad faith.

Of a kind with these efforts to confuse the issue is the plea that New York is suffering from home rule. According to the New York World that city is the victim of a lack of home rule. It ascribes the city's vice and graft to partial home rule and urges complete home rule as the remedy. In an editorial Wednesday, Feb. 12, the World said:

> The Mayor makes no attempt to cure the cancer of corruption which comes from stripping the city of home rule and defining as crimes certain offenses that are not recognized as crimes by public opinion. The statutes themselves which define these crimes are dishonest in their own definitions.
> The Mayor is trying to establish by law a method of police administration that produced Becker and that has collapsed in practice. What he should do is to demand complete home rule for New York City in all matters that affect public morals. Let the Legislature give the city the power to deal with these evils as it deals with other common nuisances. Then neither the regular police force nor a special police force would have criminal laws or criminal immunity to sell.

The Democrats may rest assured that St. Louis will not accept any form of evasion, excuse or pretext as justification for the violation of home rule anti-election pledges. The straight path of good faith and sound Democratic principle is the only safe way for the Democratic administration.

Felix Diaz says he desires and will accept no official position in the event of his success. Of course. Uncle Porfirio can do all the office-holding for the family.

WEST-ENDERS STUDYING SUBWAYS.

The West End Business Men's Association shows an intelligent and praiseworthy interest in conditions vitally related to St. Louis' welfare by naming a committe of 800 to study various phases of the subway problem.

The action is timely. With a division of the subject and proper organization, this committee can do a work of great usefulness to the city. Not the least of the service which it has within its power to render is continuous publicity for the project with suggestion as to possible expedients for overcoming the handicaps by which the undertaking is surrounded.

To provide a subway will be an arduous task. Not the least part of its difficulties will be encountered in the preliminaries. Nothing is to be gained, however, by ignoring the necessity which every year is making more manifest and by postponing assumption of the burdens it will impose. Delay, in fact, may only increase its complications. The question which city growth makes very urgent must be faced as courageously as it has been faced in other cities which have sought relief from the same irksome conditions.

Other civic bodies will fulfill a duty by taking up the problem. Those with an official responsibility for St. Louis' welfare should not sidestep it. A subway would be a mighty municipal asset for this town.

Only three State Senators opposed the measure to compel tax amendments to be submitted via the Legislature, instead of via the initiative. Unfortunately, it does not mean that the lawmakers themselves are prepared to attack with vigor the problem of equal taxation. It is a most inopportune change in these times of progressive sentiment and will cause disappointment.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Situation in Mexico.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

There are at present three revolutions in Mexico, two directed against the Madero Government, and one against the government by any white man.

The Mexican Indian has never, since the times of Cortez, been permitted to own land; yet they are not segregated, but live in the same cities and villages with the white man. In the City of Mexico, for instance, there are 400,000 Indians and fifty thousand whites. The condition of the Indian is that of a serf to the white man, a drudge for all work.

Under Diaz the military were daily paraded through the streets of cities and villages to keep the Indian in awe, and the latter had become stoics without a ray of hope to improve their condition.

When Diaz fell the Zapata Brothers incited the Indians to rebel. As there are twelve millions of Indians in Mexico and only three millions of whites, the Zapata movement will ultimately become the most important.

In the meantime Madero and Gomez rebelled against the Diaz regime, and promsied the Indians and other non-land-holding portions of the country to raise the taxes on land to such a height that the landholders would be forced to sell their land or an equitable portion of it, and to make the Mexican people, Indians and all, landowners.

Madero and Gomez inaugurated the revolution which overthrew Diaz. When Madero was elected President, Gomez expected to be made Vice-President. But at the last moment Madero forsook his war partner, and Gomez received nothing for his indefatigable efforts during the Madero-Gomez revolution. Gomez then publicly reminded Madero of his pledge to the Mexican people; but the latter replied that the time was inopportune. Gomez then inaugurated the revolution against Madero, and appointed Pascual Orozco as his military leader. This is the revolution of the north and is really a white man's revolution.

When Diaz left Mexico, he abandoned hosts of friends and admirers, partly office holders during his tenure of office (27 years), partly those who looked with dread upon the ascendency of the Indian element, and the inevitable ruin to the country in the semi-barbarism of their supremacy, a contingency, to their mind, unavoidable and inevitable except under the iron hand of a Diaz. They were the large property holders, and people of culture in general, as well as the former bureaucracy. They induced young Diaz to rebel against Madero, who failed to make himself liked in the capital. This is the third revolution. There might have been a fourth one, had Gen. Reyes not been killed, as Reyes had an enormous following in the army, of which he was the idol.

Americans hardly understand the condition of the Mexican army, and one hears on all sides the question, why 65,000 men (the standing army of Mexico) should not be able to suppress quickly any revolution that might arise. The answer is: The Mexican army is composed, as far as the rank and file are concerned, in this way: Every year the Government sends a company of soldiers to every city and hamlet of the Republic and they pick up the incorrigibles and take them to Yucatan, where soldiers are made of them. These soldiers hardly ever forget that the Government has forced them under arms, and that the Government is not their friend.

Moreover, in the various encounters with rebel armies, composed in all instances chifely of Indians, the Indian contingent of the Federal army, the greater part, will not fire on their fellow Indians at the behest of the Government, but will shoot over their heads or into the ground. That explains the otherwise inexplicable reports of the almost bloodless battles fought from day to day. The oficers for the most part are white men, and may be loyal to the Government.

SEAT-FOR-EACH-PASSENGER LEAGUE

We Must Have a Subway.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We must have a subway. In New York I can come by the subway, in 20 minutes, a distance which takes me an hour to come in St. Louis. Cut down the time of all travel in proportion and see what a saving you have. If time is money, the people in St. Louis are losing lots of money every day in the year.

Keep up the agitation and maybe you can wake up some of our mossbacks, who think because our street car line at one time was better than that of some other cities that it still is. The fact of the matter is that other cities have kept up with the times—we haven't.

Put me down for the S. F. E. P. League.

C. E. M.

A Subway Suggestion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It is estimated that if we could use the right of way of the Hodiamont line for an open subway from Vandeventer and Morgan to the city limits, and then tunnel from Third street to Vandeventer we could build a four track subway for about six millions of dollars. The city could sell bonds drawing four per cent interest to build this subway; and then could lease it to an operating company at an advance sufficient to take care of the interest on these bonds and also establish a sinking fund which would eventually retire them, thus leaving a permanent investment from which to reduce taxes or to extend the subway system.

This takes no account of the increase in the value of property in the sections reached by the system, an increase which would result in larger tax returns.

D. F. N.

Half-Fares for Strap-Hangers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If the gentleman who refused to pay fare or give up his transfer on the Tower Grove car Saturday night until given a seat as mentioned in your paper Sunday will call at my office, he will find two good bottles of wine waiting for him, which he will please accept with the kindest regards of myself and the 700,000 people in St. Louis. I believe the gentleman was not only in the right, but when the conductor threatened to have him arrested, I think that the conductor should have been arrested for breach of peace and if he had been arrested I certainly should have done all in my power to have had the conductor heavily fined.

I believe a half fare for straphangers league would stand a better chance of being immediately put into effect than a seat for every passenger proposition. However, I am with the Post-Dispatch, with the People's League and with the people of St. Louis, who are determined to put a stop to the awful street car service, just for the sake of a few holders of watered stock and bonds, who pack us in cars like razor-back hogs being sent to the slaughter pens, so they can issue and float more stocks and bonds.

In a city with easy grades and density of population as St. Louis a passenger on a street car can be carried at a cost of seven-tenths of one cent; this you see, clears the company over 4 cents on every 5 cents they take in. If any person in St. Louis doubts these figures, just let him come to my office and I will show him mighty quick.

IMMUNE.

There is a man in our town,
And he is very wise;
He wears a pair of fenders
Close-fitting to his eyes;
And when a lady's hatpin
Impinges on the screen,
He's the happiest little citizen
That ever you have seen.

It tickles him immensely
To mark the lady's ire
As soon as she discovers
The things are made of wire;
And when she ceases jabbing
And gives it up for good,
He laughs about three times as loud
As anybody should.

The ladies all look daggers
Whenever he is nigh;
They cannot see why anyone
Should want to save his eye;
They feel just like mosquitoes
Encountering a screen,
And cannot see how any man
Would want to be so mean.

THE GENERAL PEACE MOVEMENT.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 14.—The day opened with terrific cannonading between the Government troops and the revolutionists. The post-office was knocked over by one of the first shots fired. Another shot knocked the water tower over on the National Museum, bringing both of them down. Everybody applauded this shot. It was the most spectacular thing done by any of the gunners on either side. The Diaz forces decided early in the day to knock the tops off all the skyscrapers affording a coign of vantage for the machine guns of the enemy, and some of the finest structures in the city were knocked into a cocked hat in their upper reaches during the day. The Government is firing out of the business and resident district, and is therefore doing less damage to property. It is only knocking things down where it is necessary to see out. Both sides are fighting furiously, and the populace is panic-stricken. Otherwise the city is quiet.

ADRIANOPLE, Feb. 14. — The exchange of compliment between religions goes on day and night with about the same enthusiasm that has characterized the action since it began. The Turks are more pressed for food than anything else. The city looks a good deal like a canebrake after a bear fight. Almost all the mosques, which constituted the chief beauty of Adrianople, have been shorn by round shot of their minarets, and about the only undefaced habitation in the community is a deep hole in a clay bank. The contending gunners are mostly using each other's shot. The Bulgarians and Servians fire a shot into town, the Turks dig it out of a baker shop or a 10-cent store and fire it back, and it flies in and out until it wears down to a size that is difficult to trace through a sidehill or a rug store and gets lost. About the only expense either side has been to for some time is for powder.

TOKIO, Feb. 14.—Tokio is quiet again, but it scarcely breathes. The Emperor has not appeared since the riot, and the newsboys aren't calling the names of the Liberal newspapers very loud. It is pretty generally felt that the Emperor has made a mistake in being so democratic, and that otherwise his attempt to retain Prince Katsura in the premiership would have succeeded without any demonstration against it by the populace. The old Emperor never had any trouble of this kind. Everyone says the Emperor could pacify the people by issuing a proclamation promising not to treat them as equals, or to participate in any more sports with people who were not born in Heaven.

SAN SALVADOR, Feb. 14.—The situation since the assassination of the President of Salvador has been very tense. Profiting by the experience of Madero, the Government has made sure that it hasn't anyone in prison who has friends in the army. Everyone of this sort has been turned out, and the munitions of war at the arsenal have been scattered around, to diminish the danger of all of them being seized at once. An effort to unite all factions in a demonstration against the Monroe Doctrine this morning failed. Several new processes of keeping powder dry have been patented this week.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 14. — The fighting at the Tchataidja lines continues. The situation out there is this: The Turks are in a long line of trenches, with no more than the tops of their heads sticking out when they fire. The Bulgarians are in similar trenches, making a similar display. Behind both are the cannon trying to drop shot into the trenches. It is a good deal like flipping pennies at a crack. It is charged by the military experts of other countries that the marksmanship is very poor, but the Turks and the Bulgarians protest that it is as good as anybody can do, considering that the trenches are neither so wide as a house nor so high as a hill.

SCUTARI, Feb. 14.—The Montenegrins are tunneling under Scutari, and in the uncertainty of just how far the work has progressed the expression upon the face of the average Turkish soldier in the city is about the most amusing thing in the Orient. As a matter of fact, it is believed that the Montenegrins have only begun tunneling, but the Turk is not an optimist, and can already imagine himself going up.

President Madero is said to have his brother Gus to thank for the Diaz uprising. The people don't like Brother Gus, who holds a good post in the Madero regime. Mr. Roosevelt, who had two terms and came very near getting a third, said, "My spear knows no brother." He knew about brothers. All Democrats are alarmed to discover that Mr. Wilson has one.

"Who do you suppose writes all the bad verse on comic valentines?"

"I can't imagine, unless it is Alfred Austin."

"Did you read Stephen Phillips' poem on Scott?"

THE MYSTERY OF LONGEVITY.

From the New York Herald.

The celebration of birthdays at about fourscore by two men so prominent in the life of New York City as Mr. Choate and Commodore Benedict has prompted not a little speculation upon the problem of long life. Many of the workers nearly every moment of whose time has been occupied and who have shouldered large responsibilities have lived long lives. The idea that work exhausts vitality is contradicted by hundreds of examples in the last two generations.

Why a particular human cell from the first moment of its growth should, barring accident, be destined to long life while another exhausts itself in 40 or 50 years is exactly the same problem as why this microscopic cell should multiply so as to make one man more than six feet tall and another only five feet nothing. Length of life and size of body are hereditary in about equal degree, but to know that only brings us a little nearer the heart of the mystery, yet does not solve it for us.

"NEATLY SERVED PUNCH."

"'Twas not until the hour of 10 that the cotillion commenced under the capable direction of ——, gracefully assisted by Mrs. ——. The use of a whistle by the director to signal the orchestra and to direct the dancers was a pleasing innovation.

"The cotillion is distinctively a favor dance. The expense and the trouble entailed in procuring or in making the numerous favors for the party were little realized except by the ladies who provided them.

"On the stage, at midnight, under mellow candle light, a lunch, appetizing, delicious, delectable, proved a grateful diversion in which participation was general. Throughout the evening, in a sylvan cozy corner, palatable, sparkling punch was neatly served to the dancers by Miss ——.

HOME RULE SOLUTION.

From the New York World.

If the Legislature kept its hands off and allowed the Board of Estimate to deal in its own way with the social evil, with gambling and with the sale of liquor in New York City, we should have elastic ordinances that represented the general sentiment of the community. These ordinances could be enforced. All the prostitutes, gamblers and saloon keepers would not be at the mercy of the police. The police would have nothing to sell, and New York City could deal intelligently with its own moral problems.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

DATES.

S. C.—Sarto Pope Aug. 4, '03.

J. S.—East St. Louis viaduct was completed in the summer of 1890.

T. F. B.—Tent and Awning Co. fire in which 7 firemen were killed, Jan. 4, 1902.

CLEANSING.

N. M.—For scorch, dampen a cloth with peroxide and press.

ROSE.—Ink stain: Peroxide and household ammonia, half and half.

OSCAR.—Ice cream stain on white: Sponge with alcohol and when dry rub powdered French chalk upon the wrong side.

FELICIA.—To clean raincoat: Use raw potato in slices and rub until spot disappears. As soon as a slice absorbs the dirt, substitute a clean one.

F. C. W.—Clean white serge with alcohol and ether. Rub into wool while they are wet all the benzine or talcum they will hold. Leave out a day and brush out the powder.

B. A.—Clean white silk with fine powder formed of fine starch and a little laundry blue. Rub over the tissue and dust out thoroughly. Bread crumbs or chalk should be used for pink or cream colored silk. To press, fine luster iron on right side with moderately hot iron; should be well protected by two folds of slightly dampened muslin. For yellowed white silk or silk embroidery: Dissolve about 2 ounces each of salt and oxalic acid in 6 quarts water. Soak about 2 hours; then rinse at once in several clear waters to remove every trace of acid.

LAW POINTS.

PERPLEXED.—License to sell pills.

G. B.—Jury exemption age, over 45 and under 21.

M. R.—License to sell salve: Write Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

DUNN.—City official must be a taxpayer; filing fee, 2 per cent of yearly salary.

CONSTANT.—Illinois law forbidding divorcee to marry within a year was enacted in 1905.

C. C.—You may sue your boss in Justice of the Peace Court, or employ collection agency.

P. F. A.—Unless they have been divorced, man and wife may lawfully live together again after a separation.

A. B. C.—A comic valentine, sent, would not cause trouble unless obscene. Be careful as to what you send on postal cards.

WORRIED.—The Illinois divorcee who marries in Missouri while a year should keep out of Illinois. The marriage in Missouri is not unlawful in this State.

G. R. J.—Contractor can file a lien for the work you state at any time within 6 months from completion of same. If work is not according to contract, refuse to accept it.

COLOGNE.—If the noise made by a person exercising on a musical instrument is boisterous enough to constitute a nuisance, it may be suppressed by the law, invoked by anyone whose peace is broken and disturbed.

I. V. A.—You might see the Prosecuting Attorney in regard to the insult offered your daughter. If the story is true, both employer and employe should be prosecuted. The difficulty in such a case is to furnish proof.

CANAL.—A can connect with one by being included in the drainage district and thereafter being assessed as other lands in the drainage district. See judge or clerk of Circuit Court in reference thereto. In case of commissioners objecting we advise you not to connect; a fine may result.

H. W. P.—It is unlawful to employ children under 14 years of age except in domestic service and agricultural work. All newsboys must be more than 10 years old. For persons between 14 and 16 years old to work, a certificate must be obtained, telling the age of the child and other statistics. Employer must persons less than 16 years old to work before 7 a. m. or after 7 p. m. Report violations of the law to the factory inspector, Fullerton Building.

W. W.—You can sue tenant for possession and rent, also costs, regardless of sickness and facts of case; suit will come to trial within one week and after judgment is obtained constable has 5 days within which to enforce execution and put them out. Landlord must pay costs, which is added to amount of judgment if asked for and which will be about $6. What it may cost to put them out depends upon amount of furniture and other effects you have.

MISCELLANEOUS.

O. W.—Your coin is a Portuguese dollar; value 40 cents.

CONSTANT. — Four consecutive years' residence for policeman.

ANXIOUS.—For all magazines on annual in Public Library reference room.

D. V. C.—Julia Marlowe is now in her 42d year; Sothern is 54. They have been together since 1904.

DEAN.—Tried the first-grade physical examinations in civil service in St. Louis in 1912. 97; passed, 85.

CLARA.—The Duepplier Marche (a war march of the American-War), Duepplier is a name in Schanzen a fortress. Marche a march.

ANXIOUS.—Box number is counted as 4 words. Box is held 6 days from date of insertion. Ads taken at the main office or branch stations.

J. B. G.—More than 8000 patents issued; loss on them estimated at $2,000,000. There seems to be no demand for them.

MAIL ORDER.—Mail order business is a retail merchandise trade carried on by mail, legitimate if properly conducted, and details of which are taught by some who profess to be experts in it.

WANTUNO.—Mene, mene, tekel upharsin (Chaldaic) means numbered, counted; weighed and found wanting. It should be written Mneh, mneh, t'qeil U-Pahrsin. Pronunciation, mene nay (short i), mi-nay, t'kail oo-pahrsin.

J. O. C.—The term gold-filled watch is misleading. Gold filling consists in taking two sheets of gold between which is placed a section of base coated base metal. This metallic sandwich is heated and pressed so that the three parts are welded together with the gold outside.

NEW YORK AND A. B.—Your question in regard to fires in skyscrapers was sent to Chief Swingley. No answer received. In the Baltimore fire the interiors of steel buildings were consumed; frames were not much injured. In 1907 President Bash of the New York Underwriters proposed a billion-dollar skyscraper fire in New York. Mr. Walsh said, in part, that systems of sprinklers and all attempts at fireproofing in the New York skyscrapers would not avail in a great conflagration. Recently a 17-story skyscraper in Cincinnati proved not to be fireproof and was burned, the firemen being unable to get above the ninth story.

E. F.—A mail carrier says a substitute is paid at the rate of 40 cents per hour for all work. When he works on Sunday, generally two hours, he is paid 60 cents, where a regular is paid for the whole day, comprising eight hours. When a substitute is employed long in a regular's place he is supposed to deliver special delivery letters, very often losing money by them, as they get 8 cents for same, sometimes getting only one letter to deliver and spending 10 cents carfare to deliver it, and other times getting a dozen of four or five to all parts of the city and county, spending 10 cents for carfare. See Civil Service Rules.

The Post-Dispatch Daily Short Story

The Sorrowful Queen

By Anita Fitch

"AND so," said the new mamma, "when the poor Queen came into her kingdom she was still very sorrowful.

"Why?" asked Dicky, lying still in bed and staring straight up at the ceiling. Dicky was only "most seven," so his constant "whys" in the midst of stories he knew by heart were quite excusable. For the rest, he stared at the ceiling because he did not want to look at the new mamma. She had been in the family almost a year now, but Dicky had only known her as intimately as this a very few weeks. Before that he had lived at Aunt Jane's; and when he left there and came back to live with father, for the longest, longest time he kept his eyes shut tight, and wouldn't answer when she knocked at the door at night.

But when one is only "most seven," and loves stories with words in them like jewelry. Ah! you know! Dicky's eyes opened at last—but only for stories.

"Why?" he repeated, now quite vehemently, for the new mamma seemed to have forgotten entirely that she was telling one.

"Why?"

"Oh, because she was young and foolish, I suppose," she returned, laughing over so little. "Or maybe"—she was looking wistfully at Dicky's stern cheek now, a fresh, wholesome boy cheek—"maybe it was because the little prince royal wouldn't sing the song the others sang when she came there. He wouldn't do that and give up the key."

"Sing it." Dicky broke in imperiously, drawing up his knees under the bedcovers in delicious anticipation. "Sing it—out loud."

For the song was the loveliest gem of all in the story of the sorrowful Queen. The new mamma flung back her pretty head; even Dicky, who still wasn't looking, knew that it was pretty. Then she began singing, in the sweetest ladylike voice imaginable.

Welcome, welcome, gracious queen.
Since mistress now thou art,
I give to thee the golden key
Which doth unlock my heart.

"An' w'en he wouldn't," said Dicky, dreamily taking up the thread of the story, which somehow fascinated him more than all the others—"w'en he jus' wouldn't, she went into her chamber and put on the mantle of grief.

"It was all dark"—Dickey's voice had sunk to an awed whisper—"an' it was embroidered with tears and fringed with the deepest sighs. She wore it one day every week, though the king was good to her, an' she cried, an' cried, an' said her prayers."

"Yes," said the new mamma softly; and then, more softly still: Just because the little prince wasn't her own child she wanted his love more than anybody's—for that reason, and because he was a splendid boy, anyway—brave and honest."

Dicky sighed—a long sigh that seemed to come from the very tips of his toes. The sorrowful queen had been a new mamma, too, he remembered.

He looked over across the room. His new mamma never sat close to his bed when she told stories. He didn't like it any more than he liked some other things; and once when she did it he had said roughly: Go furder, please."

Now she was sitting quite far away in the big armchair where he himself always sat when he was getting well of something. Once—long, long ago, when he first came from Aunt Jane's—she had tried to kiss him in it; and then he had felt like hitting her. If she had been a gentleman he would have done it. But boys can't hit ladies and girls—father said that.

Tonight—Dicky couldn't tell why—he kept feeling sorry his arm chair was so big and white. She was wearing a white wrapper, too, and was sitting leaning forward with her elbows on her knees and her chin in her hands. She had been very sick and Sarah—Sarah was the maid who dressed Dicky—said that she "refused to be comforted." That was because God had taken the baby back.

"Ah," sighed Dicky again very suddenly, and then he looked straight into the new mamma's eyes. It had been her own baby; her ownest own, and she had had it just two days.

"Perhaps," he ventured presently, "p'r'aps the 'Sorrowful Queen' is too long for tonight."

"Perhaps it is," returned the new mamma, smiling a little.

But she didn't offer to tell another story. So after an anxious moment Dicky said: "Good night," very stiffly, and the new mamma said back: "Good night, dear," quite humbly, and directly there was Dicky all alone with the dark.

But still he kept thinking of the new mamma and of the sorrowful Queen. In the story the Queen danced sometimes for the little Prince, who would never sing the song or give up the golden key to his heart; and once—when he came on a little visit from Aunt Jane's—the new mamma had danced for him. That was before God gave her the baby, and took it back again; and she had worn, oh, the prettiest ball dress, all pinky, with silvery bunches like grapes. Still Dicky wouldn't laugh, though he loved dancing as much as stories. He had only made a big frown come in his forehead, and made his face all feel just like it did the day she tried to kiss him.

Now she never danced any more; and she never tried to kiss him any more. She only came into his room at night very quietly to tell stories, with the chair far away from his bed. Sometimes—sometimes—she looked almost like the sorrowful Queen in it. If she had worn the mantle of grief embroidered with tears, and——

"Oh," Dicky heard his throat say suddenly, and there was the dark feeling as if it hurt—hurt. He kept thinking of the chair; it was a fully big chair. Then his bed felt big—as big—as big, almost as the world when there's nobody in it. And then he thought of father. Father was in New York—with business; there was nobody—nobody to hear him say his prayers. Prayers! Ah! Once he had prayed a bad one; in bed too, like this. "God bless everybody but her." Maybe—maybe that had made Him take back the baby! And now, 'way, 'way down there, in her own lonely room—which seemed as big as the world, too, maybe—there was the new mamma who wanted to kiss children. Any kind of children.

All at once—it was somewhere in the night—Dicky felt as if his legs wanted to get out of bed. Then there he was in the middle of the floor, with his fingers putting on his bathrobe and slippers; and after that there were his feet taking him straight down the hall to the new mamma's room.

"Come in," said a voice immediately when he knocked.

But Dicky's ears seemed full of cotton—he knocked three times; and when he stood in the room, close to the new mamma's bed, staring down on her, he could only say huskily:

"Good evening."

"Good evening," returned the new mamma, smiling beautifully.

Then "Won't you sit down?" she asked, as if it were quite a usual thing for Dicky to be there; which it wasn't, of course.

She pointed to a chair close, close to her bed as she spoke.

"Thank you," mumbled Dicky politely; and down he sat, but with his eyes shut tight.

For though she was still smiling, smiling even more beautifully, there were her cheeks all wet! And though she was wearing just a pretty lady-night-gown—with ribbons and things—with her hands folded together like that, as if they were saying prayers, she looked as if she were the sorrowful Queen. The light from the coal fire had shown him plainly.

"Ah," he said slowly. He opened his eyes and stared at the carpet a moment. Then he stared hard at the new mamma. Then, "Ah!" he said again; and then he laughed—a strange, happy little laugh.

"Wunst," he began, almost bursting with something—something that seemed extremely pleasant—oh, lovely. "Wunst there was a boy borned."

"Yes," murmured the new mamma. She seemed to know that he was telling a story. She unclasped her hands, putting one under her cheek, and turning comfortably to face him. She looked tremendously related to him that way—tremendously.

"He had just arms—an' legs—an' a head," went on Dicky, too dazzled to say merely that his hero was not a Prince. "But"—the story was telling itself now—"he never had any mamma of his own. W'n he was coming down from Heaven, she was going up, and they never met. Anyway"—Dicky was splendidly sailing now—"anyway, he don't care any more. He's got 'nother one—an' she's very nice! An' that's all."

How long the room was quiet after this Dicky never knew. Then he saw that he was looking straight into the new mamma's eyes, and that they were looking straight into his—looking as if something had happened.

"Darling," she whispered, "darling! Darling! Darling!"

Dicky said nothing. It was all too wonderful. He only sat smiling back sweetly, and yet a little wistfully, thinking to himself the word he had never wanted to think before—mamma, mamma, mamma.

SOFT GINGERBREAD: One cup of New Orleans molasses, one cup of sugar, one-half cup of shortening, one cup of water, one large teaspoonful of soda dissolved in the water, one teaspoonful ginger, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon and one quart of flour. Stir molasses, sugar, shortening and spice together, then add water and flour. Stir hard. This makes a large cake. Add raisins for a change.

Coffee Cake: One cup sugar, one cup New Orleans molasses, one cup cold coffee, one-half cup butter, one cup raisins, spice to taste, and one teaspoonful soda dissolved in the coffee.

Cake: One cup sugar, two tablespoonfuls lard (just level), one cup sweet milk, two cups flour, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, a pinch of salt and flavoring to suit.

Frosting: Three spoonfuls sweet cream, one cup powdered sugar, one tablespoonful cocoa and flavoring. Do you find easily made.

NEW DISHES

THE late Roswell P. Flower of New York, once gave $100,000 for a new dish. Here are the recipes of a dozen new dishes invented by several of New York's chefs.

Flower entered Delmonico's one afternoon and took his accustomed place at a table on the Fifth avenue side. He was not hungry. He knew the menu by heart. There was nothing that appealed to him, and the suggestions of Paul, the head waiter, were equally unappealing.

"Paul," he said, "if you'll mix me up something that I can eat today—something new and appetizing—I'll give you a tip on the B. R. T. that will make you more money overnight than you can make in this business in a lifetime."

Roswell P. Flower had a new appetizing dish for luncheon that day. Paul mixed up a salad that tickled the palate of the famous New Yorker, and true to his word he gave Paul a tip on B. R. T. that netted $100,000 for the head waiter.

CAVIAR FANTASY.

INTO the middle of a cold dessert plate place one spoonful of oyster cocktail sauce; prepare, in the meanwhile, a little cup made out of a boiled knob celery. Place this over the oyster cocktail sauce, fill with caviar, and serve very cold.

OLIVES SURPRISE.

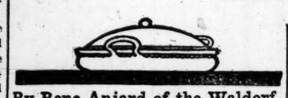

THESE are first pitted, then stuffed with foie gras, anchovy salad, herring salad, sardines, deviled ham, deviled bacon, etc.

NEW SUCCOTASH.

BOILED peas, string beans and corn, creamed with a little fresh apple, chopped very fine and cooked in it. Season with salt and pepper.

SPECIAL CHEESE.

WELD together thoroughly three pounds of Roquefort cheese, one pound of butter, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, one pony of Worcestershire sauce, one pony of sherry, salt and pepper to taste and the juice of a small bunch of chives hashed fine. Mold into the shape desired.

BLUEFISH—FISHERMAN'S WAY

PREPARE as follows for two persons: Into a fish boiler place a mire-poix, cover this with seaweed, place a two to two and a half pound fish on the tray, season with salt and pepper, then lower the tray into the fish boiler. Take one dozen oysters in their shells, wash thoroughly, and place same on the tray around the fish. Over the fish place strips of bacon partly frolled, pour in one pint of Rhine wine, add a little more seaweed over the whole thing, seal the boiler hermetically and place over a fire until cooked.

DEVILED ASSORTED NUTS.

ALL kinds of nuts can be used in this way. Shell and roast; when done, salt them and pass under the salamander. Sprinkle them thoroughly with paprika and powdered English mustard.

SOUP SANTE A LA MENTHE.

COOK some tiny lima beans; when done pass through a fine sieve, incorporate this into a cream so as to make a light soup, season with salt, pepper and a little celery salt. At the last moment add chopped mint to taste.

OYSTER CROUTONS.

MATERIAL: Eight oysters, eight small rounds of bread, four ounces of cooked fish, two ounces of butter, salt and pepper to taste, a squeeze of lemon juice, two ounces of toast crumbs, milk.

Method: Beat the cooked fish with a little milk, butter and pepper to a puree, first removing all skin and bones. Fry the rounds of bread in butter until a light brown. Take them out and put the oysters in for a minute or two. On each crouton place a little of the puree and an oyster in the center. Sprinkle with toast crumbs, squeeze a little lemon juice over, dust with cayenne, and put them in the oven for two or three minutes. Serve garnished with parsely.

SWEETBREADS WITH MUSHROOMS.

MATERIAL—Two sweetbreads, 12 button mushrooms, a few strips of bacon, two ounces of butter, dessert spoonful of flour, half a pint of stock, one gill of cream, two yolks of eggs, teaspoonful of taragon vigenar, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste.

Method—Soak the sweetbreads in salt and water for an hour. Then let them simmer for 15 minutes. Take them out, cool them, trim them, lard with thin strips of bacon, and bake or fry in butter until lightly brown. Make a sauce with one-half ounce of butter, flour, stock cream, vinegar and the yolks of the eggs (well beaten and thinned with a little of the stock), salt and pepper to taste. Add to this sauce the sweetbreads and mushrooms, and let them simmer slowly for 15 minutes.

CHATS WITH GREAT MEN OF THE CIVIL WAR

BY MRS. GEN. PICKETT

10—GEN. U. S. GRANT.

THE first time I saw Gen. Grant was through our headquarters field glasses from the Howlett House line on the James River, opposite Dutch Gap Canal. This line, across Swift Creek and Fort Clifton on the Appomattox, was held by Pickett's Division after the retaking of Bermuda Hundred, for which capture Gen. Lee sent to Gen. Pickett most complimentary acknowledgments. This was in the summer of 1864. Grant was standing on the slope peacefully smoking. Beside him were Mrs. Grant and his friend, Gen. Rufus Ingalls.

My next memory of him was at the Pennsylvania Station in Washington not long after he became President of the United States.

"Hello, Pickett!" he said. "Up to your old tricks, getting in ahead of the train" (referring to an old war story), as we came upon him sitting in the carriage at the depot.

"Yes, General—Mr. President; I beg your pardon—the Southern, which they tell me is unusually behindhand, must have known that I was obeying the order of my Commander-in-Chief and came in beforehand," replied my Soldier.

"I wonder, Pickett, if that title thrilled you in speaking it as it did me in hearing it; and, by George, I wish from my heart that you were back in the old Army."

For want of something to say, after a reference to West Point, I remarked:

"All Presidents should have the West Point, as well as the political and collegiate, training."

"Perhaps," he courteously replied, "but so far Gen. Taylor and I are the only ones who have been trained as soldiers. Neither of us, I believe, had been educated in politics. Taylor was an immense slaveholder, and that is one charge that my party could not bring against me as an excuse for not voting for me."

He told me afterward that it was not his ambition to be a soldier; that he had preferred any other occupation, and that when his father told him he had secured his appointment to the military academy he said:

"If you have, I shall not go."

"'I think you will, sir,' said my father. And after that look I thought so too."

"'I don't think, however," Grant continued, "that I would have succeeded at anything else. I know I shouldn't as a merchant or tradesman. When I was about 8 years old I was anxious for my father to buy me a horse that belonged to a neighbor. My father didn't think it was worth the $25 the neighbor asked, but told me I might offer him $20. If he would not take that I might offer $22, and if he refused and I still wanted the horse I could give him his price. When the farmer asked me what my father said I told him word for word. Maybe you can guess how much I had to give for the horse. And if you know much about boys you know how much my life was worth when my schoolmates found out about my bargain."

Grant loved horses, and in the academy was not only noted for his horsemanship, but for making the highest leap known in the annals of West Point. He told me about his first experience in riding in public.

"It was at the circus," he said. "I got in by crawling under the tent. They had a trick mule and offered a dollar to anyone who would ride him around the ring. The first time I tried, just as we got nearly around, he threw me over his head. I asked them to let me try again, and mounted with my face to the rear, catching hold of the mule's tail. He was so surprised and demoralized that he forgot to play his trick and took me peaceably on to the end. I carried off the dollar."

"If I had any distinct aspirations when I was in the Academy," President Grant said, "it was that sometime in the dim future I might hold a professorship there in mathematics."

The bitterness of the surrender of an army, unconquered in soul, though exhausted by starvation and crushed by overwhelming force, was softened by the tender chivalry of the ragged soldier and great-hearted man whom destiny had led to the dominant place in this impressive scene.

"But," said Gen. Grant, "the story that Gen. Lee offered me his sword and I refused is pure fiction. The thought of side arms had never entered my mind until I was writing out the terms of surrender, when, providentially chancing to look up at him, I saw Gen. Lee glance down at the magnificent sword given him by the State of Virginia. It flashed upon me what an added heart-break it would be to the great soldier to part from a weapon so endeared to him by sacred memories, and I immediately inserted the clause which reserved the Confederate officers the right to retain their side-arms."

Eckman's Alterative Highly Praised

A Valuable Remedy for Throat and Lungs

It is folly to believe that Consumption differs from every other disease in not requiring the use of any medicine for its treatment. For a number of years an enormous mass of voluntary and thankful testimonials from persons who consider that they owe their lives to Eckman's Alterative, a medicine for Tuberculosis, has been accumulating. Surely plenty of time to demonstrate its lasting value. You can write to any of them. Here is one:

"Gentlemen: In the winter of 1903 I had an attack of Grippe, followed by Pneumonia and later by Consumption. I grew steadily worse. In the winter of 1904 I had cough, night sweats, fever and raised quantities of awful-looking stuff and later I had many hemorrhages; at one time three in three successive days. Milk and eggs became so distasteful I could keep nothing down. Three physicians treated me. I was ordered to the mountains, but did not go. Eckman's Alterative was recommended by a friend. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well. Everything I say here can be verified by my family and friends." ANNE F. LOUGHRAN.

WOMEN, LOVELY WOMEN

"Fair Tresses Man's Imperial Race Ensnares," Says Pope

The greatest of feminine attractions is a beautiful head of luxuriant hair. Glorious hair! Great poets have sung its praises; artists have endeavored to portray it accurately, but have seldom succeeded.

Are you a woman?

Would you crown yourself with glorious hair? Would you add doubly to your present attractiveness?

Then go to the drug counter and ask for a bottle of Parisian Sage, the great hair tonic and beautifier. A large bottle costs but 50 cents, and in one week's time it will change harsh, lusterless, untidy hair into soft, silky and luxuriant hair.

It kills the microbes. That's how it cures dandruff. It is a pleasant and invigorating hair dressing, and is not sticky or greasy.

"I have used Parisian Sage two weeks only, yet in that time I find my hair has wonderfully increased in beauty, thickness and luxuriance. But what surprised me most was the disappearance of all dandruff. It pleases me to recommend such an efficient remedy to all my friends. Gratefully yours, Mrs. Maud Hagar, 617 West 136th st., New York City."

Reflections of A Bachelor Girl

BY HELEN ROWLAND

THE girl who marries in order to escape working for her living is apt to receive the same sort of shock as the motorist who runs into a trolley car in order to dodge a telegraph pole.

A feminine cynic is not so often a woman who has missed the wine of life as she is one who has drained it and is suffering from the headache.

A man's kisses are first reverent, then rapturous, then tender, then casual, and last—charitable.

"Love" is what sends a man to the tailor, the haberdasher, the florist, the confectioner, the jeweler, the money lender—and sometimes to the devil.

A woman finds out why she admires a man and then falls in love with him. A man falls in love with a woman and then spends the rest of his life trying to find out why.

From the cradle to the grave men are always in the kindergarten class as far as their knowledge of women is concerned.

Poets may sing of the blush that "comes and goes," but what most women are looking for nowadays is the kind of blush that will come and STAY on a sticky day.

A woman is never satisfied with the power to make a man happy because she is never quite convinced that he loves her unless she can make him miserable.

DELIRIOUS MAN'S STORY CAUSES POLICE INQUIRY

Raves in Hospital of Crime in Nashville, Tenn., Which Is Being Investigated.

The East St. Louis police are investigating the story of a shooting told Thursday night by a man in a delirium at the Henrietta Hospital. The man collapsed and fell unconscious yesterday afternoon in Thesiere's cafe, 222 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, and was removed to the hospital.

From papers in his pockets it was learned he was formerly of Nashville, Tenn. He was delirious when placed in the hospital ward and talked of incidents that had happened in Nashville.

Clyde Lensby, 1817 Belmont avenue, East St. Louis, who occupies a cot adjoining that of Burton, told the police that the man said he had shot a detective in Nashville. Lensby said he formerly lived in Nashville and that a Robert Vaughn, a detective there, was shot sometime ago and that the bullet was deflected by his shield, doing little damage.

TENTH BEETHOVEN SYMPHONY HAS ITS LOCAL PREMIERE

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

To the St. Louis Orchestra Club under the directorship of Frank Gecks belongs the high honor of giving St. Louis its first hearing of Beethoven's tenth ("Jugend") symphony, discovered about three years ago by Professor Dr. Stein of Jena, Germany, after having reposed for a century among other long-forgotten papers, and causing a memorable stir in European musical centers when first performed in the recent past.

The St. Louis Orchestra Club is a symphonic organization composed of some 75 young men and women who play good music for the love of it, which is a fine thing to do, and who play it amazingly well, all things considered, which also is a fine thing to do.

In the Central High School Auditorium on Thursday evening these young musicians gave a genuinely worthy interpretation of the "new" Beethoven score, enabling their audience to enjoy one of the rarest of musical pleasures, that of listening to a premiere presentation of a great symphonic work, and to feel, additionally, that they were taking part in a memorable historical event.

The "Jugend" symphony, true to its title, is instinct with the spirit of youth and the joy of living, which is youth's most precious possession, and, written by Beethoven in the glad flush of early manhood, bears many evidences of the power that was to come with the maturer years of its creator.

Quite typical, also, of Beethoven's genius, it is marked by a splendid simplicity and the very essence of greatly melodious song, and there is no moment in its hearing when one may not realize the noble ardor with which the young Beethoven must have brought his first symphonic utterance into being.

The symphony's first movement, the allegro-energico, sounds a spirited and happily confident strain, enlisting the full choir of strings and gradually reinforcing these with the horns and woodwinds employed in lovely unison. A momentary change to an even more joyous lilt of exuberant mood, voiced by the first violins and, an instant later, by all the strings, with occasional sweet cries from the woodwinds, then ensues, after which a return to the original theme is heard, the movement closing with a fine employment of the full orchestra.

The second movement, an exquisite adagio, bears perhaps more valid marks of the great Beethoven of later years than are found at any other stage of the work. It seems to be the very soul of tuneful German song, sweetly simple, yet big in its very simplicity and lack of pose.

The string sections are masterfully employed, especially the cellos and other deeper strings, constituting an undertone of melodic appeal not easily to be forgotten. The violas, the flutes, bassoons and oboes also are brought into service with excellent results. The song-strain quickens for a little time into an uplifting joyousness admirably voiced by the first violins, with a briefly heard pizzicatto by the second violins and violas, after which the original song-theme is resumed and sustained to the finish.

The minuetto third movement is of the quaintest charm, a truly typical example of that blend of dignity and humor so often encountered in Beethoven, and calls most authoritatively upon the strings and wood-winds for its fullest exposition.

Demurely old-fashioned in its content and structure, it came with almost startling vitality as a voice from the past, filling the imagination with picturesque musings and the spiritual fragrance of old lavender. It was very delicately interpreted by Mr. Geck's young players, testifying eloquently to their appreciation of its poetic spirit.

Least satisfying of the four movements was the fourth, which brings the "Jugend" symphony to its close. Here one is made to feel that the young Beethoven, himself red-blooded and ardent in his youthful power, had not yet arrived at that period when the sounding of life's deeper notes is possible.

And it is with just such an utterance, one cannot but believe, that even a "Jugend" symphony best may find its closing strain. The song-essence is here, inextinguishable as ever, but its fabric now, when at least a moment of soberer thought should come, is of too light and tricksome a texture. The immaturity of feeling is keenly recognized, and, just to this extent, the score lacks the round fullness that should attach to it if its psychology is to be entirely comprehensive.

A very great and well-deserved enthusiasm was manifested by the audience when the notable performance was completed, Director Gecks being brought several times to the footlights to bow his acknowledgment of such acclaim.

Other features of the program were the song numbers that introduced Mrs. Franklin H. Knight as the soloist, and the orchestra's presentation of Luigini's "Egyptian Ballet" suite and the overture to Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas."

Mrs. Knight's mellow, truthful and finely emotional contralto voice was heard to much advantage in Secchi's "Lungi dal cars bene," Brahms' "Sandmaenchen," Chadwick's "The Danza," Whitcomb's "To a Faded Rose," Mary T. Salter's "The Cry of Rachel," Coleridge-Taylor's "Candle-Lightin' Time," and Whelpley's "The Nightingale Has a Lyre of Gold." She scored a vedy distinct success with her audience.

WATCH FOR PNEUMONIA

Community Afflicted With Colds, Coughs, LaGrippe, Catarrh and Dangerous Fevers.

Repeats Advice to Use Mentho-Laxene Medicine, which Anyone Can Make at Home Cheaper Than Labeled Goods—Purer and Better, Too.

This is for the reader who knows the value of every five-cent piece and usually it saves from 40 to 50 five-cent pieces for those who are informed. Having medicine in your home costs more than making a little of it yourself. Buying ordinary patent medicines means that you pay too much for syrups, corks, bottles, labels, cartons, etc. For instance, if you buy a 25-cent bottle of cough medicine, it contains about two ounces, four-fifths of which is syrup—and for 25 cents you can make one-half gallon of syrup.

By making Mentho-Laxene medicine at home you save lots of money on syrup alone, and besides you know it's pure and quickly effective. Let us prove then that this is the best and cheapest way to stop coughs, colds, catarrh, and to prevent pneumonia, diphtheria, la grippe, is to make this fine big supply of medicine by mixing one-half pint of boiling water with a pint of granulated sugar. Then, buy of your druger pure concentrated essence Mentho-Laxene (a 2½ oz. bottle) empty into a pint bottle or jar and fill up with the syrup. Directions with each bottle tells how to make and take, while the manufacturers guarantee to refund money to any dissatisfied purchaser. You run no risk and will have on hand a medicine which has never been equaled for colds, coughs, bronchitis, catarrh, hoarseness, etc. Its tonic laxative action puts the entire system on a healthy basis and chronic diseases and consumption are avoided. The above product is manufactured by the Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio.—ADVERTISEMENT.

Chronic Stomach Trouble

Thousands of people suffer with chronic stomach trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation, where it is so easy to overcome that the well informed set back and smile with pity. Neglect causes additional trouble and after that dread disease appendicitis is the result. Physicians should make it known that neglect is manifested by the public and a way to prevent fatal diseases and dangerous operations should be made known. Many learned physicians now prescribe triopeptine tablets, and it is safe to say that when these tablets are used in time, the symptoms disappear and the disease is vanquished in its incipiency. If the symptoms are present, this treatment can be obtained at pharmacies with full directions for self-administration.—ADV.

LABOR PROTESTS COMPENSATION BILL IS UNJUST

Central Trades Here and Organizations in Kansas City Trying to Defeat It.

Labor men who oppose the workmen's compensation bill pending in the State Legislature have caused an exhaustive protest to be forwarded to Jefferson City. The protest is printed in pamphlet form and sets out at great length the opposition to the bill.

George Safford, acting as attorney for committees of the Central Trades and Labor Union of St. Louis and the State Federation of Labor, has prepared for the Post-Dispatch the following synopsis of this protest:

"The Joint Committee appointed by the Governor, the chairman of the House and Chairman of the Senate, to prepare a bill providing for the compensation of injured employes of this State, has prepared and presented to the Legislature a proposed bill entitled Workmen's Compensation Act, the provisions of which, if enacted, would constitute one of the most vicious laws ever placed upon the statute books of this State.

"Part 1, Sections 1 and 2 of the proposed act, instead of abolishing the defenses of fellow servant and assumed risk, as the labor leaders of this State were led to believe by those seeking to pass the law, neither create additional liability of the employer, nor abolish any defenses enjoyed by defendants in personal injury suits, because the employe, under the present law, is liable for the direct results of his own negligence, and of the negligence 'lawfully imputed' to him, even if the negligence of a fellow servant contributes, with his own negligence, to cause the injury and regardless of the doctrine of assumed risk.

Noxious Gases and Dust.

"Sections 7 and 8 of the Act, providing that employes at the time of their employment, and whenever the time of their employment is extended, must, to bring them under Part 1 of the act, notify the master in writing, and deliver a copy of the notice, with proof of service, to the Bureau of Labor Statistics at Jeffercon City, are so onerous that 99 per cent of the laborers of this State, if they wished to come under the provisions of Part 1, would, in all probability, find it utterly impossible to comply with the provisions of the law enabling them to do so, and the provision referred to is apparently written for the purpose of depriving the employe of the ability to elect, which is quite as obnoxious as would be a provision depriving him of the right to do so.

"The proposed act does not provide for injuries due to noxious gases, poisonous dust or impure water, but applies only to injuries caused by violence, and provides compensation based upon the wages of the injured, giving him but 50 per cent of his weekly earnings, with a minimum of $5 and a maximum of $10 per week, for only a limited time, regardless of the amount of his earnings, or the extent of the injury, allowing him nothing for bodily pain, mental anguish or disfigurement, or moneys expended for medical and surgical services, medicines and nursing.

Case of a Young Girl.

"The proposed law provides that if an employe's wages are less than $5 per week, he shall for a limited time stated, receive his wages in full. Under this provision a little girl—of which there are thousands in this State—getting $2 per week, for the loss of a leg, rendering her unmarriageable and helpless, would receive her full wages for 175 weeks, or the total sum of $350, while the present law would permit her to recover $10,000.

"For such a disfigurement as would preclude all probability of marriage, but not affecting her earning power, the girl would receive nothing.

"A locomotive engineer earning $200 per month, for the loss of his right hand, would receive the penurious sum of $1500, as against $15,000 under the law now in force.

"The act is so drawn that the injured laborer would receive about, or less than, one-fifth the amount now received. The framers of the act have limited the amount recovered so the employers can litigate without fear of heavy verdicts, but have left the amount uncertain, so that the judge sitting as a jury, may err in declaring the law as to the measure of damages.

"Not satisfied with this provision, the framers of the act, Section 20, provide that the entire matter may be submitted to a judge selected by the employer, without a jury, and that from his decision, as to questions of fact, there is no appeal.

"Under the ordinances of this city, the owner of a vicious dog may be tried and the dog executed. Article 2, Section 28, of the Constitution of this State guarantees them the right to trial by jury. Part 2 of the proposed act deprives the employe of the right to trial by jury. If the act is passed and is enforced, the dog and his master will have the right to a jury, which will be denied the careful employe injured in the line of duty.

No Distinction Made.

"The law makes no distinction between the hurt while exercising ordinary care for their own safety and men whose injuries are due to their own negligence. It does not give employes any right to additional compensation, but deprives those who under the present law would recover, of about four-fifths of their compensation, so the master may pay it to the insurance companies, instead of enabling them to distribute to the negligent and careless such portion of the amount as they cannot save by threat of protracted litigation or by fraud.

"If the present law allows a boy getting $4 per week—and thousands get less—the sum of $18,000 for the loss of a leg, and the proposed act gives him only a cause of action for $700, will he not be in the position of the creditor who, holding his debtor's note for $100, accepted by way of compromise his note for $50, which, when due, he was urged, in order to save litigation, to compromise for $25?

"The employer can litigate without fear, when the amount of recovery is limited, as in the proposed act, but when unlimited, as at present, his fear of heavy verdicts prompts him to settle for substantial sums.

"Labor wants a law making the master liable for the negligence of his fellow servant, and abolishing the defense of contributory negligence—compelling the master to pay such proportion of the damage as his negligence bears to that of the employe. The proposed law takes nothing from the employer, but simply enables him to take from the careful injured a portion of the compensation due, and distribute part of it to another.

Personal Injury Claims.

"We ought to have a law providing that personal injury claims should bear interest from the date of injury, instead of from the day of judgment, so the interest saved by litigation would not, as at present, often pay or exceed the cost of, and constitute a premium upon, litigation.

"Section 20 is in violation of Article 2, Section 28, of the Constitution of Missouri providing that 'The right of trial by jury, as heretofore enjoyed, shall remain inviolate,' and is therefore void. True, the injured might be deemed to have waived his right to a trial by jury, by electing to come under the provisions of Part 2 of the act, if the provision concerning election required him to know, at the time, that he was waiving his right to a jury, but under the proposed act, a mere failure constitutes an election, and failure, alone, cannot constitute a waiver of the constitutional right to a jury trial. The constitutional right to a jury was meant to safeguard the rights of the poor and ignorant, even the rights of the negligent, as well as the rights of the rich and intelligent and careful.

"The submission of the proposed act is a reproach to labor, and I am glad to say that the Central Trades and Labor Union of this city, a number of the labor organizations in Kansas City, and the Legislative Committee of the State Federation of Labor, are doing all they can to defeat its enactment."

"TALKING MOVIES" AT COLUMBIA NEXT WEEK

Edison's Latest Wonderful Invention Has St. Louis Premiere Monday Afternoon.

Edison's "talking moving pictures," expected to completely revolutionize the amusement world, will receive their St. Louis premiere at the Columbia Theater next Monday afternoon. For next week and thereafter the "talkies" will be one of the big features in connection with the regular Columbia vaudeville. The Columbia holds the sole rights in St. Louis for their exhibition.

The "talkies" are shown by the kinetophone, a combination of the kinetograph and phonograph which brings about a perfect synchronization of motions, dialogue and sounds of every description. The phonograph is mounted on the stage and is connected with the machine that projects the pictures.

The feature film of the first week will include an explanation of the invention itself through a pictured lecturer who "talks" to the audience. The film explains the various methods of reproducing voices and other sounds, the lecturer showing each phase as he goes on. For instance, he takes a plate, raises it and tells the audience he will drop it. The plate falls, is shattered and the audience hears the crash.

The film also includes a comedy playlet. As the season progresses the foremost stars of stageland will be seen at the Columbia in the "talkies."

Republican Senators to Caucus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Republican members of the Senate will hold a caucus within the next few days, probably Saturday, to consider a program for party action during the remainder of the session. So far only two of the general appropriation bills have passed the Senate.

M. A. C. ENTERS 15 RUNNERS IN TRI-CLUB MEET

ELEVEN OLYMPIC TEAM MEN IN M. A. C. MEET

ELEVEN athletes, who were members either of the 1908 or 1912 Olympic teams that swept the classic meets of London and Stockholm, already have entered the M. A. C. carnival scheduled for the Coliseum March 15. This bevy of stars includes Meredith, Davenport and Lindberg, quarter-milers; Nicholson and Wendell, hurdlers; Belote, Rector and Lippincott, dash men, and John Paul Jones, French and Erxleben, mile or two-milers.

Belote, a Chicago A. A. man, was fourth in the 100-meter at Stockholm. Wendell won the hurdles, Meredith took the 400-meter, while Lippincott was placed in the 100-meter. That's a pretty classy line-up.

By W. J. O'Connor.

Fifteen spiked shoe stars have been nominated to run in the colors of the Missouri Athletic Club Saturday night at the First Regiment Armory, where the second open handicap meet will be held. The Central Y. M. C. A., First Regiment and M. A. C. officials collaborate in staging this affair.

Considerable interest will be manifest in the showing made by the M. A. C. sprinters, who for the past week have been under the supervision of Jimmy Rector, the famed dash man. Rector's proteges have had little real work but a big improvement already has been shown, it is said.

Neither Eddie Tobin, the half-miler or John McCawley, the 100-yard man, will run for the club Saturday. Both plead that they have not had enough training to compete this week. However, they will be ready for the big track Carnival at the Coliseum. The full club entry is:

High hurdles—Kiener, Haydock and Cook.

1000-yard run—Erxleben, Bantel and Biel.

Potato race—Lowe, Hoverder, Pemberton and Kiener.

The mail carriers and policemen will have their inning in Saturday's meet. The distributers of the U. S. A. mails and the long arms of the law will stage two relay races, preparatory to picking their relay teams for the meet at the Coliseum March 15.

Special stress is laid on the fact that the admission to Saturday's meet will be only two bits, one-fourth of a dollar. At least a corporal's guard is expected to turn out.

OARSMEN SET MEETINGS TO DISCUSS 1913 PLANS

The spring meeting of the Southwestern Amateur Rowing Association is to be held Saturday night at the Western Rowing Club, when prospects for the approaching season will be discussed. Secretary John Kelly has requested the presence of all members.

Secretary Tom Halley of the Central States Rowing Association has issued a call for the meeting of the delegates of that organization. The meeting will also be held at the Western Rowing Club. The local delegates will tender a banquet to the visiting delegates. The ladies will be entertained at the Century Boat Club in the afternoon.

AMATEUR CUEIST SETS NEW HIGH-RUN MARK FOR POOL

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Morton Phillips set a new world's record at pocket billiards under the new rules when he counted 74 last night in a match with Edward Jones, in the Chicago amateur championship tournament. The new rules went into effect during the tournament at Philadelphia last year and the best previous mark was a run of 59, made by Champion Alfredo de Oro in his match against Maturo of Denver. Phillips defeated Jones, 125 to 53.

WRAY'S COLUMN

MAKING GOOD UNDER PRESSURE.

HOT shot from the big and little guns of pugilism have forced White Hope Champion Luther McCarty to halt in his mad flight from a championship engagement and execute a change of front.

McCarty, who had raced away from a chance at fame, fortune and a match with Bombardier Wells, two days ago, Thursday accepted terms for a bout with the Briton, to take place at Madison Square Garden, March 14, or very soon thereafter.

The affair will be 10 rounds and, of course, with no decision forthcoming except from that hydra-headed referee, the New York press.

Billy McCarney, probably for pecuniary reasons, tried to sidestep the contest; but critics everywhere focused on William and his methods, and capitulation resulted.

WE HAVE A LITTLE LIST.

THE fact is the critics, the public and the fighters, too, are growing weary of stage-struck champions who won't fight unless a national mint is at stake and the enemy handicapped out of a chance to win.

We have with us at present several whose presence never would be missed. There's John Kilbane, willing enough to box, but unwilling to take a chance. He either makes his opponents reduce to the point of emaciation, or he flits away in a shadow dance ring stunt not at all appealing to onlookers.

Willie Ritchie, who was donated a championship on a flimsy "foul," hasn't even the grace to come out and show the public that his title is deserved. Welter and middleweight championship holders are lacking. But the white hope champion sidestepper, Lute McCarty, has attempted to wear all the habits of a real title-holder, when his sole claim rests on the fact that Tom McCarey gave him a zinc belt.

THE CRIME OF JOHNSON.

THE crowning imposition of all is that perpetrated by the real champion of the world, Jack Johnson, who has assiduously side-stepped every dangerous fighter since beating T. Burns and has fought nothing but sure-thing propositions, has fallen down on contracts, and has abused in every way the obligation of a title-holder to the dear old public.

IT'S ABOUT TIME.

BUT the D. O. P. is showing signs of cutting its wise teeth. In the future champtions will have to deliver. At least this is the lesson taught by the storm of protest against the methods of Kilbane and McCarty and Johnson.

MORE MOUND CITY KNOCKERS.

PROMOTERS of the six-day grind are thinking sad thoughts as the bicycle "frost" approaches its end. The thoughts and their verbal expression are by no means complimentary to St. Louis and the adjectives used to describe this good old "conservative" town are "dead," "asleep," "provincial"—yes, and then some.

However, the city seems to be awake enough to distinguish a live show from a dead one. Its crime appears to have been in using its intelligence to the detriment of gate receipts at the Coliseum.

FLY-BY-THE-NIGHTS NOT WANTED.

IF St. Louis is asleep when these call-once-and-gone - forever promoters drop in on us, it is with one eye open. Sad experience in the past has taught the St. Louisan that visiting sport promoters will bear watching—which is more than can be said of most of their shows. Wrestlers, boxers, bicyclers, race horse owners and other such characters now at large, have contributed to teach the local public a lesson which it with difficulty forgets.

SEEMS ON THE LEVEL.

PERHAPS the bicycle riders have deserved better consideration at the hands of the local public than has so far been accorded. The riders are prominent in their lines and their competition seems on the square. Nevertheless, the show is essentially a pot-boiler designed merely to keep the men from scattering to the four corners of the world and to hold them for the big shows in the East.

Many of the spectacular elements which make the show a go in New York are wanting here, while the men themselves show their lack of interest by letting the pace drop.

If the promoters made money in Des Moines and Kansas City, it is because the minor league stuff is suited to minor league communities. Side shows have long been taboo in the Mound City.

Baseball Tour to Cost $50,000.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—In figuring on the expense of the proposed tour of the world of the Chicago Americans and the New York Nationals, President Charles A. Comiskey of the Chicago club last night estimated the total at $50,000. He expects to take 15 players and the cost per man he finds will be about $1500. The New York club, he said, probably would take a like number of players.

CENTRAL FIVE DEFEATS SMITH ACADEMY, 19—15

Smith's Academy's basket ball team yielded to Central, 19—15, in a stubbornly fought game in the latter's gymnasium Thursday afternoon. Smith previously had defeated Yeatman, and the Central lads were proud of their victory. Brown starred for the winners, scoring 10 points. Wiegand was the individual star of the academy five.

The McKinley High five, leaders in the High School League, proved easy picking for the Company K team of the First Regiment in their game at Louisiana Hall Thursday evening. The final score was 40—19. In the preliminary game, Company L won from the O'Fallon (Ill.) High School, 31—24.

ROGER GOES SOUTH WITH CUB RECRUITS TOMORROW

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Twenty-five members of the Chicago National League club, under the guidance of Manager Evers, will leave here for their spring training grounds at Tampa tomorrow. The name of Cheney, one of the Cubs' most efficient pitchers last season, is included in the list, but information as to whether he had signed a contract could not be had from the club headquarters. He has been holding out for a better contract.

Mitchell will leave from his home in Cincinnati and Bresnahan from Toledo. Archer, Sheckard, Richie, Schulte, Lavender and Good are already in the South.

McGraw Hires a Dentist.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Manager John McGraw of the Giants will take special precautions while the teams are on their spring training trip in the South to prevent illness among the players. The Little Napoleon announced this morning that Dr. E. Biers, a dentist of this city, would accompany the team South. Dr. Biers will have authority to examine and attend to the teeth of all the Giants.

CHICAGO HOLDS LEAD IN THREE-CUSHION LEAGUE

By defeating Kansas City, 50—42, Thursday evening, Chicago retained the lead in the National Three-Cushion League. Brooklyn, runner-up, also went over, 50—20, at the expense of the submissive cueists from Boston, and the race remains a tight one.

Stanford Passes Penn Meet.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Feb. 14.—It was decided yesterday that Stanford University could not accept the invitation of the University of Pennsylvania Athletic Association to send a relay team to the ninteenth annual relay carnival, which will be held in Philadelphia April 19. The Eastern event will come but one week after the Stanford-California track meet, which will make it impossible for the Stanford men to go East.

MORTON'S SPRINT PUTS 'BOOB' BIKE TEAM IN THE RACE

All Contenders in Tie at End of Third Day of the Six-Day Event.

By Harry S. Sharpe.

Will Morton of the "Boobs" team caught the bunch of six-day riders napping at the Coliseum, Thursday evening at 7:15 o'clock, and let out a kink that enabled him to steal a lap and place his team on even terms with the others. This is the team that lost three laps on the first day of the race and then succeeded in regaining two of them on the second day. By regaining another lap yesterday, the third day, they tied the score and when racing ceased at the end of the twenty-fourth hour, Thursday night, all the teams had 504 miles and 4 laps to their credit.

The pace yesterday was not quite so fast as the day before and the average per hour was only a fraction over 20 miles, the fastest time being made in the last hour, when the riders rode 22 miles and 7 laps. The last mile was made in 2m. 2 2-5s., when the riders were sprinting for the special prize of $25 to the first team across the finish line at the end of the day's racing.

This was won by Worth Mitten of the Australian-American team, with George Cameron of the Knickerbocker team second and Bob Diefenbacher of the Native Sons third.

Three Falls Cause No Damage.

There were only three spills during the day and Walter de Mara of the Native Sons team was in two of them, but the rider escaped with nothing worse than a few slight bruises.

Frank Cavanaugh was the only other rider in the race to fall during the day. This happened at 6 o'clock, when he was engaged in a sprint and the big fellow had a narrow escape from serious injury, as he was thrown hard and rolled over several times with his wheel before he finally landed at the bottom of the track. The accident was caused by the rubber stripping which is used on the tires to keep them from slipping coming loose and wrapping about the forks of his machine.

Owner of Cubs Donates $50 to Bresnahan Day

"Count" Henry Hoffman, the world's champion Bresnahan supporter, announced Friday that he had received a donation of $50 to the Bresnahan diamond fund from Charles Webo Murphy, Roger's new boss. Hoffman says there now are 150 iron men in the Bresnahan diamond fund's treasury, but that this amount will be doubled before the bell rings in April.

"Murphy was glad to get the chance to contribute to the Bresnahan fund," declared Hoffman Friday. "He said he would have contributed more, but the purchase of Roger put a big crimp in his bank account. However, he stated that he considered Bresnahan the biggest man in baseball today and took pleasure in helping to buy the Duke a diamond pin."

If the fans fail to contribute to the Bresnahan fund, Hoffman may be forced to "dig" down in his own jeans. Henry wouldn't consider any present that cost less than $300. Bresnahan draws down $10,000 a year and the diamond must be in proportion.

O'Rourke Wins Libel Suit.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Thomas O'Rourke, the New York promoter of boxing contests, was today awarded $250 damages in the King's Bench Division of the High Court in a suit for libel brought against the proprietors of Boxing, a sporting newspaper published in London. The newspaper published articles alleging that O'Rourke had arranged the results of various boxing competitions beforehand.

Harvard Trainer Dies.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 14.—William E. Quinn, who has trained hundreds of Harvard athletes for field events, died today after a long illness. He was 32 years of age and came to Harvard in 1906 from the New York Athletic Club.

SPORT SALAD

BY L. C. DAVIS.

A WALENTINE.

Oh, won't you be my walentine?
I'm wery fond of you!
Come, be my little clinging wine,
My wows of love are true.
I long to see thy wisage shine
Beneath a wedding wail;
For, wirtue is a thing dewine,

UP TO DATE.

Ye bachelors had best beware of Cupid
Since with the bow and arrow he is done;
Such weapons are inadequate and stupid—
He does it with his little gatling gun!

Col. Hedges, after witnessing the performance in the East of a vaudeville artist named Walsh, signed him up as a pitcher. When asked if his latest "find" could pitch, Mr. Hedges naively replied that he didn't know, but that he was one of the funniest jokers he had ever seen. The Colonel is so used to paying out regular money for joke ballplayers that when he sees one he just can't make his bank roll behave.

One of the rules proposed by the National Lawn Tennis Association would bar amateurs from having any connection with the sale of tennis goods. The lines are tightening up all around. It will soon be that only employment left open to the simon pure amateur will be that of a witness, at which occupation the wages are small and the picking precarious.

The New York Giants carry a dentist. He can be used for pulling the pitchers out of tight places and when not otherwise engaged can "plug" for the team.

FOOTBALL SOLONS FAVOR NUMBERING PLAYERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—With the arrival today of most of the 14 members of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee for their annual session here tonight, it appeared that the football doctors would make this year's clinic a brief and unimportant one, without any radical operation. The only important change which has been prominently suggested in the rules has been the numbering of players, which has come up before without decisive action.

The reform has been urged particularly by sporting writers, who have found difficulty in identifying players accurately, and by spectators generally. The opposition to it has been that it would nullify to some extent the advantages of tactics, as shift plays could be more quickly diagnosed and understood by opponents.

It is said, however, that many members who have opposed the change have been won over this year to favor it.

George Stovall has so many players under age that he fears that the police will raid the Browns' park and arrest him for violating the child labor act.

Little Chance for Cards or Browns to Strengthen

Training Season at Hand

Both Local Clubs' Baseball Managers Have Hard Task Confronting Them Beginning Two Weeks Hence —Cobb and Crawford May Not Be With Tigers.

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

Two weeks from today will see real activity in the local 1913 baseball campaign. By that time part of the Cardinal aggregation will have started for the training camp in Columbus, Ga. The main squad will depart March 4, while the Browns are to assemble in Waco, Tex., on the same day.

Managers George Stovall of the Browns and Miller Huggins of the Cardinals have real tasks ahead. There is no denying the fact.

Stovall inaugurates the season with a squad of more than thirty players, all of whom, with the exception of Bob Wallace and himself, are youngsters.

Hug's big task will be with the pitchers. He has the foundation of both in and outfields. He also has a flock of young hurlers from whom he will have to pick aids to Sallee, Harmon, et al.

Neither club profited during the big League meetings in New York. Huggins said he was seeking a pitcher, but was unable to land him. He is believed to have been Rudolph of the International League. Hug was disappointed that he could not arrange a deal or purchase for the flinger.

Ty Cobb Still Obdurate.

Frank Navin, owner of the Detroit club, told his friends at the American League meeting that he was going to be bold enough to send the Tigers into the 1913 Marathon without Tyrus Raymond Cobb, if the Peach persists in holding out for $15,000. Sam Crawford, who, like Cobb, is also trying to hold up the Jungletown magnate for more money, will also be an absentee from the lineup if he does not come in at Navin's terms.

Navin believes both men are unreasonable, and, while he realizes that they are stars in their chosen specialties, declares that he will not stand for the shakedown game. Inasmuch as Cobb and Crawford are generally looked on as the entire Tiger team, it will be interesting to note who wins this battle, magnate or player.

From where we sit, we'll lay a little on Cobb's chances of collecting.

Johnson Pleased at Chance Deal.

Every time anyone mentioned Frank Chance's name at New York it brought a smile from the face of President Ban Johnson of the American League. It was the fine work of the baby league head who engineered the transfer of the once Peerless Leader of the Cubs to the New York Yankees. Johnson regards this as one of the best moves the American League has arranged.

Some contend that Chance will not create the same reputation as manager of the Yanks that he did as leader of the Cubs. They claim that it was the players who made Chance.

Hard Times for N. L. Teams.

Chance is really the only new manager who will lineup at the start of the A. L. race. Having started in the last stages of the 1912 campaign, Joe Birmingham of Cleveland is now a vet.

Things will be entirely different in the National League, where four clubs will toe the scratch with new pilots. That's almost certain to cause a heap of upsets.

With Roger Bresnahan as a club over Johnny Evers' head, the fidgety citizen of Troy, N. Y., is expected by many to chuck up the job by Independence day. The Cincinnati delegation that went to New York declared that Joe Tinker was in right in Rhineland and would be a success. They always believe Cincinnati managers the best in the world—in the winter time.

George Stallings can do no worse than his predecessors with the Braves of Boston. He has some fair material and a hard job. What he does with it remains to be seen.

The St. Louis situation is also puzzling. It seems that Huggins' success or failure is up to the pitchers. Sallee and Harmon are known quantities. The pleasing prospects are Bill Steele and Sanford Burke. They showed spurts in the 1912 windup that caused admirers of this team to expect a whole lot from them this season.

O'Connor Still Balky.

When former Judge Williams and President Hedges of the Browns started for New York, the latter declared that he did not know what his attorney intended doing in New York, aside from taking a short vacation. On the return trip, however, the Brownie magnate admitted that Judge Williams had held a conference with President Ban Johnson. Just what the nature of this confab was, of course, Col. Hedges refused to divulge.

It was hinted that the Jack O'Connor case was the subject of their conversation. But this unpleasantry of the 1910 season has been dragged out so long that it appears as if it might never be settled. Hedges is willing to cough up $2500, or half the amount O'Connor wants. Jack has told his attorney to collect all or nothing.

TWO CLUB BOUTS JEOPARDIZED BY WEIGHT WRANGLES

Magirl-Rowan and Schieberl-Bishop Contests Prevented by Two Pounds Difference.

Four boxers who are expected to provide interesting competition for local fistic fans are still quibbling over the weight for their proposed bouts. Al Magirl, Marty Rowan, Ollie Bishop and Clifford Schieberl, are the men in mind.

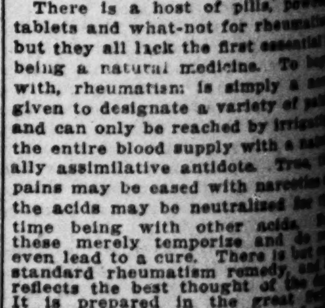

Bishop and Schieberl are sought by Secretary Walter Lavine of the St. Louis A. C. for the Coliseum wind-up to the Kirk-Genail bout next Tuesday evening. They originally agreed on 118 pounds, Schieberl's best mark, but inasmuch as Bishop can come in two pounds less and still be strong, he wants the Rock Island man to make that weight.

In case Bishop cannot be induced to sign, Bobby Robidou of Memphis will probably be brought here to take Bishop's place. Schieberl's signed contract is in Lavine's hands and he is sure to be put on, in any case.

Magirl is emphatic in his declaration that he will make no less than [illegible] pounds at 3 o'clock for his proposed bout with Marty Rowan before the Future City A. C. members, Feb. 25. Rowan wants him to do 146.

Rheumatic Blood is Whole Story

Wonderful Specific for Sciatica, Lumbago, and a Cure For Dreaded Articular Rheumatism.

There is a host of pills, powders, tablets and what-not for rheumatism but they all lack the first essential of being a natural medicine. To begin with, rheumatism is simply a name given to designate a variety of pains and can only be reached by irrigating the entire blood supply with a naturally assimilative antidote. True, the pains may be eased with narcotics, or the acids may be neutralized for the time being with other acids, but these merely temporize and do not even lead to a cure. There is but one standard rheumatism remedy, and it reflects the best thought of the day. It is prepared in the great Swift Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., and sold in all drug stores under the name of S. S. S. at $1.00 a bottle.

Starvation has been advocated by many as a cure for rheumatism, and yet S. S. S. accomplishes in fact what faddists proclaim in theory and without the punishment of starvation. Hot springs and sweating are also recommended, but S. S. S. does all that is expected of these expensive and weakening methods.

It is conceded by the closest students of the subject that rheumatism is caused in most cases by an acid condition of the blood and aggravated by the remedies commonly used for relief. In other cases rheumatism is the result of nerve depression; in others it is the effect of a blood condition, having been treated with mercury, iodides, arsenic and other poisonous mineral drugs.

The recoveries of all these types of rheumatism by the use of S. S. S. is a wonderful tribute to the natural efficacy of this remarkable medicine, for it is assimilated just as naturally, just as specifically, and just as ordained as the most acceptable, palatable and most readily digested food. Do not fail to get a bottle of S. S. S. today. You will be astonished at the results. If your rheumatism is of such a nature that you would like to consult a great specialist confidentially, write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

STOCKS REFLECT BETTER TONE IN EASTERN MARKET

Canadian Pacific and Steel Common Are Leaders on the Rally.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"There was a somewhat better tone to prices in this market and at London today, although the gains were for the most part unimportant. Here trading was dull most of the time, and in the last hour especially, when the market was reacting partially from an afternoon rally, very little business was done.

"The feature here was the pronounced weakness of the copper shares. This was brought about by outside heavy selling in some of the speculative favorites of that group. After opening ¼ point lower at 70, Amalgamated Copper declined to 68⅞, recovering partially before the close.

"This movement did not have important influence upon the rest of the list, and some of the railroad shares were at times conspicuously strong.

"In the final trading many of the active shares ruled fairly firm, but generally below the best of the day.

At London prices were fractionally higher, sentiment being more cheerful. The feeling there seemed to be that the political outlook had improved, and that the situation was not as complicated as it was 24 hours ago.

"At Paris the situation was also viewed with complacency, but at the German capital prices were fractionally lower.

"There were no important news developments here, and the situation so far as the firemen was concerned showed little change."

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S WALL STREET TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—With business in the first hour on the stock market only one-third of the volume of yesterday, speculation was of a more normal character and there was none of the feverishness of yesterday. Fluctuations in most cases were small, with the main trend downward. The better outlook for adjustment of the firemen's dispute with the Eastern railroads lessened pressure against the railroad list. Further weakness of foreign copper markets contributed to the depression of the local copper shares. Although familiar forces apparently were at work in Can, elevating it several points, today's movement in this stock was without effect on the general list. Bonds were irregular.

Secondary prices were mostly better and the leaders eventually sold slightly above yesterday's closing. Can was marked up 2 points. Lackawanna dropped 20 points on the filing of a new anti-trust suit by the Government.

The change in the complexion of the market stimulated some inquiry for the long account and the market reached a level generally well above yesterday's closing. Canadian Pacific gained 2½ points and Steel 1.

Shorts took alarm when the acute weakness of the copper stocks failed to disturb the list greatly, and they rushed to cover. Union Pacific rallied 2 points to 157⅞ and Reading. Steel and the coppers over 1. Amalgamated, which had sold at 68⅞, the lowest in months, made a full recovery.

Forecasts of the week's currency movement show an apparent loss of about $1,000,000 in cash, the large gain from the interior being offset by losses from gold exports and subtreasury operations.

The market closed easy. Traders who had a profit and did not wish to carry stocks over night in view of possible unfavorable developments sold out, and their sales were augmented by bear pressure against the coalers.

COMMERCE STOCK WEAKER ON THE LOCAL EXCHANGE

Price Loses Three Points to $149; Railways Issues Are Steady.

ST. LOUIS CLEARING HOUSE STATEMENT.

	Clearings.	Balances.
Today	$13,201,742	$1,690,453
Last week	13,050,409	905,332
Increase	$151,333	$785,121

National Bank of Commerce sold 3 points lower at the early session of the local Stock Exchange Friday, the price dropping to its former low point at $150 on rather heavy transfers. At the close the best bid was $149 and no offers. All told 247 shares changed hands. Between sessions the issue was traded in at $152.50 and $153. Other issues in the bank and trust lists showed no important changes from the preceding session.

United Railways issues again showed a firm tone, with the common stock wanted at $14 and sellers at $14.25, the preferred selling at $41.25 and the 4s at $74.25 with that figure.

The miscellaneous list showed a steady range of quotations with National Candy common active at $10.25. The bond list was steady on the securities mentioned.

Local Money Market.

Interest rates have remained 4¾ to 5½ per cent with the bulk of business done at 5 per cent, while demand funds have again been very freely offered at 5 per cent. Deposits at practically all places showed a fair gain for the past week.

MODERN MILLER.

The greater part of the area of the winter wheat belt is reported to be in excellent condition, but there are farmers who claim damage to the wheat by the absence of snow during hard frosts, and in some dry sections the plant is not looking healthy. The wheat sections of the Northwestern Pacific States have received heavy snowfalls, amply protecting the crop against severe weather.

Wheat futures encountered some support Friday and held steady to a fraction higher after some early liquidation. The day's news was negative.

Corn futures also reflected buying after a fractional decline, although pit sentiment is all against an upturn at this season.

Weather was cold over the belt, but receipts liberal. Oats broke fractionally, then rallied with the other grains.

The Liverpool wheat market was comparatively steady at the opening and unchanged to ¼d lower. Weakness of American cables was offset by the heavy Continental demand and confirmed reports of heavy Continental takings of Argentine wheat, with a large amount of clearances destined to Continental ports. Following the opening there was an advance of ¼d to ⅜d with the undertone firm and shorts profit-taking. Reports from India were of insufficient moisture, and the forecast was for smaller world's shipments this week.

Liverpool corn opened irregular, with Plate up ⅛d on the firmness of holders. The American grade was ¼d lower on the weak American cables. Later both grades advanced ⅛d with the undertone steady on a better spot trade, and the decreasing stocks in Argentine and small arrivals there.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ¼d up to ¼d down; corn, ⅜d up to ¼d lower. Paris wheat, ½c up; flour, ¼c to ½c up. Antwerp wheat, 1¼c lower; Berlin unchanged and Budapest ⅞c lower.

Northwestern receipts were lighter. Minneapolis had 282 cars, against 339 last week and 327 last year. Duluth had 128, against 29 and 28. Winnipeg, 150, against 907 and 261. Minneapolis wheat receipts increased 150,000 bu for the week.

Local wheat receipts were 90,400 bu, or 54 cars local, 28 through; last year, 44,400 bu, or 29 cars local, 8 through. Corn receipts, 106,800 bu, or 68 cars local, 21 through; last year, 100,800 bu, or 63 cars local, 21 through. Oats receipts, 34,000 bu, or 8 cars local, 12 through; last year, 51,000 bu, or 24 cars local, 6 through.

One feature in the corn market at the moment is decidedly more disposition on the part of country dealers to put out some hedges against their long stuff. During the past six weeks there has been a great deal of corn coming in from primary markets on consignments and as the market has been advancing steadily, such operations were more or less successful. However, now that the trend is the other way there is a growing disposition to hedge which will make more or less pressure all the time.

Flour stocks in the United States and Canada Feb. 1, estimated by the Daily Trade Bulletin, was 2,570,000 bbls, an increase in January of 178,000 bbls.

Total primary wheat receipts were 804,000 bu, against 687,000 bu last year. Shipments, 421,000 bu, against 276,000 bu. Corn receipts, 1,454,000 bu, against 1,047,000 bu last year. Shipments, 906,000 bu, against 647,000 bu.

Clearances: Wheat, 353,000 bu; flour, 25,000; corn, 376,000; oats, 16,000; wheat and flour, 466,000.

Chicago wheat cars were 78, corn 907, oats 261. Estimated Saturday: Wheat 112, corn 895, oats 220.

LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Feb. 14.—Comparative receipts table:

	Today.	Week Ago.	Year Ago.
Cattle	1,600	3,000	900
Hogs	8,500	7,000	8,500
Sheep	2,200	1,400	2,000
Horses and mules	100	250	250

NATIVE CATTLE—Receipts today totaled 800 head. Steers were strong; cows and heifers slow, but steady; no change in bull or canner trade. Very few calves were offered for sale. The stocker market was steady with a limited offering.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—Arrivals in the quarantine division totaled 800 head, a small supply. Steer offering included some right good meal and cake fed Texas that sold up to $7.85, a high figure. Canners were unchanged but buyers punished heretics and yearlings to the extent of a 10c to 15c decline.

HOGS—A moderate supply was received and the market was on a steady basis with the Thursday close or 15c lower than the best time Thursday morning. The top was $8.40 for several loads, while the bulk went at $8.20@8.35. Good medium and heavy hogs, such as the shippers and butchers are usually looking for, brought $8.30 and upwards, while the best mixed went at $8.15@8.30 and fair mixed $7.85@8.10. Best grade of lights weighing less than 165 pounds brought $8.10@8.40; best pigs under 125 pounds sold at $8@8.25, medium pigs $7.25@7.85, fair kinds $6.25@7 and the rough heavy packers $7.40@7.75. The close was firm and there was a good clearance.

SHEEP—The market was 10@15c lower on lambs, but sheep and yearlings were on a steady basis. Best lambs brought $8.25@8.75, yearlings $7.35@7.85, mutton sheep $5.25@5.50, stockers $3.50@4.25 and bucks $4.25@4.50. Lambs are 25c lower than the middle of the week, but sheep and yearlings are steady.

HORSES AND MULES—About the usual week-end retail trade was in evidence in the horse market today. A few of the early-week Eastern buyers remained over for today's market, and demand from this quarter was about even with early week's trade. Southern demand continued somewhat dark. Prices ranged steady on all offerings.

The mule market seemed somewhat relieved of the congestion at the opening of today's session, but buyers are still scarce and demand continued poor. A few sales were negotiated yesterday, with prices remaining about even on all classes. Common kinds are still on the market and sales are slow.

COTTON MARKET LOWER DESPITE BULLISH REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 6 to 7 points under renewed selling and in response to relatively easy cables.

Active months sold about 7 to 8 points net lower right after the call, but the market then rallied on Wall street covering and trade buying, which seemed to be promoted by expectations of bullish week-end figures and a bullish construction of the census report on supply and distribution, which showed record-breaking consumption for the month of January.

Domestic mill stocks at the end of January showed a considerable increase for the month and were considered equal to nearly four months requirements, but at the average rate of consumption so far this season, local statisticians estimate that the American mills must take at least 2,000,000 bales more between now and the first of next September.

The market was less active late in the morning and ruled irregular with prices about 3 to 4 points net lower at midday.

A SPLENDID CORNER
FOR APARTMENT HOUSES

A nonresident owner has instructed us to sell the lot, 123x140, on the s. e. corner of Delmar and Whittier, and make a low price on it. This is an exceptionally fine piece of ground for apartment houses, several of them recently erected in the neighborhood being leased up very profitably. The reduced price on this corner makes it the best apartment house site in the city. Builders should see this at once. GEO. F. HEFFERNAN, Agt., 22 N. 8th st.

CAMPAIGN FOR NORVELL CARRIED ON WITH A RUSH

The campaign of Saunders Norvell for the Democratic nomination for Mayor is being pushed aggressively from his headquarters in the Planters Hotel. His campaign committee, acting on the assumption that he will be the choice of the Democratic voters in the city primary March 7, already is working to get votes for him at the April election.

Ten persons are employed at the headquarters sending out literature and letters soliciting contributions to the Norvell fund. Letters have been sent to business friends of Norvell suggesting that contributions of $25 to $250 would be acceptable. The letters request that contributions be sent to G. H. Walker, treasurer of the campaign committee. John C. Roberts is chairman of the campaign committee.

Advertisement in Street Cars.

A street car advertisement calculated to arouse the ire of Dr. John H. Simon, and other contenders for the Democratic nomination, was placed in one-half of the cars operated in the city Thursday. This poster reads: "Saunders Norvell, Democratic Candidate for Mayor; a Live Mayor Means a Live Town."

Speakers are being sent out to all the Democratic ward meetings to represent the cause of Norvell. Thousands of pieces of literature are being mailed to all the voters on the registration books. The committee is making the two campaigns at once—because the time will be short. The primary will be held three weeks from Friday, and the election will follow in a little more than three weeks after the primary.

Twenty thousand buttons also are being distributed, and much billboard space is being used. Norvell is making a personal campaign, preliminary to the more active speaking to be made after he files. He visited nearly all the registration places in the city Thursday to get acquainted with the voters, and attends several ward mass meetings every night.

It is his intention to file his declaration as soon as Gov. Major signs primary election bill. He then will begin making speeches, and will endeavor to cover the city before the primary election. Big signs were put up over the Planters Hotel entrance and in the lobby Friday to let the voters know that headquarters had been removed from the Carleton Building to the hotel.

Rear Admiral Murdock Retires.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Rear Admiral Joseph H. Murdock, ranking officer of his grade, was placed on the retired list of the navy for age. He has a longer record of sea service than any other officer of the navy.

THE JARR FAMILY

By ROY L. McCARDELL

Mrs. Jarr in prosperity fears the Black Hand.

"DON'T you think we should do something to celebrate the increase in salary I've"—Mr. Jarr almost said 'got,' but corrected himself in time to say "received."

We always "receive" a salary and its attendant (only they attend so infrequently) raises. In the same way the man who chases down a job, catches up to it, corners it and, panting and "all in," gets his clutches on it is always said to have "accepted a position."

These subtle distinctions were not in Mrs. Jarr's mind. She was simply concentrating on the extra amount that was to accrue to the family revenues.

"Yes," said Mrs. Jarr, finally, "I think we might celebrate it by putting it in the savings bank every week. Not this week or next week or, maybe, the week after that, but every week when we can."

"But," argued Mr. Jarr, "while there is a sense of kinship to the Money Trust and a wholesome dread of socialism inspired by opening a savings bank account with an initial deposit of, say, $10, and a biographical sketch of one's self and the miden name of one's mother, still, don't you think we should open a quart of chop suey or something?"

"We'll open a bank account, that's all we'll open!" replied Mrs. Jarr. "I've always wanted a bank account. Clara Mudridge-Smith has one and Mrs. Stryver has one, and it looks so swell to go to one's bird's-eye maple or mahogany boudoir desk and take a pen with a mother-of-pearl handle and a cute little check book and draw a check. I hate to go to a bank and cash a check, because they are so fussy when you don't put your name on the back of it. But I would love to WRITE checks!"

"It's literary work that doesn't pay," said Mr. Jarr. "I'd rather cash other people's checks, made out to me, than make out checks for other people to cash. Besides, if we open a savings bank account we can't check against it."

"Then what's the use of putting the money in the old banks?" asked Mrs. Jarr. "Every time I'd read about a bank failure or a bank employe embezzling I'd get so worried!"

"Those are the responsibilities of wealth," said Mr. Jarr, solemnly.

"Oh, dear! I suppose so!" whimpered Mrs. Jarr.

"Well, we should have a little celebration of some kind—go to the theater or out to dinner or something," suggested Mr. Jarr.

"We'll do nothing of the kind!" replied Mrs. Jarr. "The last time you were promised a raise of salary of $5 a week we went out and spent $50 celebrating it. And then the increase was taken off because you were late coming down to the office on account of having been out all night celebrating the increase you didn't get!"

"Everybod we know believes we've got a whole lot of money. I don't know how the rumor started," said Mr. Jarr. "I'm held up by 'shoestringers' every time I stick my nose out of the house."

"Why should you buy shoestrings when you don't need them?" asked Mrs. Jarr. "And who told the people who sell shoestrings?"

"By 'shoestringers' I mean the innumerable captains of industry in this town who know how to make a million dollars for you if you'll only invest a hundred dollars in their schemes," explained Mr. Jarr. "They are called 'shoestringers' because their personal capital is the price of a shoestring; but they prefer to buy a beer with it."

"Well, I don't understand these financial matters," said Mrs. Jarr. "I am only wondering if it is wicked for us to let people believe we have money when we haven't."

"It's not so wicked so long as we don't live beyond our means," said Mr. Jarr piously.

"Well, we are not doing that," ventured Mrs. Jarr. "We haven't money enough to live beyond our means. It takes a lot of money to do that. The Stryvers live beyond their means, but that's because they have lots of money. I'm sure we don't. Of course, I owe the butcher, the baker, the grocer and a lot of people; but if you had a larger salary I wouldn't. I hate to owe anybody a cent."

"We can pay all our outstanding obligations now that I've got a raise of salary," Mr. Jarr remarked consolingly.

"We'll do nothing of the kind!" said Mrs. Jarr sharply. "We'll buy some things the children and I need, and we'll put money in the bank. Besides, it's the worst thing one can do to pay cash for everything. Then one can't get credit when one needs it. But, oh, dear! If we put money in the bank do you think the Black Hand will kidnap the children?"

Onto Him.

"HE'S probably one of the best known men in this town."

"That so?"

"Yes. Nobody will lend him money."

Ready to Oblige.

A TEXAS sheriff, visiting Chicago to take a prisoner back to the South, was turned over to an inspector who was to be his amusement guide. They wound up at an East Side ball where there were a few dips present.

After a half hour the inspector called one of the crooks to one side and said:

"See that tall man with the sombrero?"

"Yes, what about him?"

"He's a Texas bull I'm showing around and I think it would be a fancy idea if you could nick him for his ticker."

"Nix, you're trying to put me in bad."

"Nothing like it—purely a joke, that's all. To show you I'm on the level I give you my word that you won't get in trouble and I'll give you a $5 note for his watch."

"All right; here it is."—Chicago Post.

How Could She?

"DO you suppose," she remarked, "that Eve really cared for Adam?"

"Certainly. Why shouldn't she?" he replied.

"Well, I don't know—only there were no candy kitchens or jewelry stores then."

His One Request.

"DO you want your wife to vote?"

"I do," replied the man who has a high idea of civic responsibility. "All I ask of her is that she won't say 'What a bother!' when election happens to come on the same day with one of her bridge parties."—Washington Star.

ALL FOR A NIGKEL.

"'S been a dull day," he yawned.

Hardly had the words left his teeth when Claribel Smith tripped into the shop. (The door mat was a little loose.)

"Is it true, what it says on the sign?" she said briefly.

"Yes," answered the clerk; "all true and a yard wide, if your capacity's equal to it. Nickel first." And he gazed at her. For, verily, she was a peach, with the complexion of a rosebud and a crepe de chine gown that fitted like a breeze.

"I'll start off with root beer," she said softly.

He started her off with root beer. She drank 12 glasses.

"Now I think I shall try some chocolate soda," she said.

He tried her with cholocate soda. She drank 16 glasses.

"I little lemon phosphate, please," she gurgled.

Bandaging his business wrist to keep it from wabbling, he turned on the lemon. She drank 18 glasses.

Ninety-four glasses had gone down the great front way and the clerk was breathing hard, but game, when a form darkened the doorway.

"Hay, you!" he called to the clerk. "Watcha mean by trying to gum up tonight's performance? Don't you know that's Claribel Smith, the lady tank at the Dime Museum that you're a-waitin' on?"

With a jar of blackberry juice clasped to his breast, the clerk fell behind the counter in a swoon as she tripped (the mat was still loose) out of the shop on her manager's arm.

THE NECKTIE MYSTERY.

"Try a little air from 'Tannhauser,'" suggested the great detective suavely, as he drew forth his violin.

"I shall dine away on pie—I mean I shall pine away and die!" the stout lady panted on.

"You weigh more than 104 pounds," said the great detective suddenly.

The great detective smiled enigmatically.

"A little secret of the trade," he said lightly. "But what is it you wanted to see me about?"

"Neckties!" she explained rapidly. "When neckties disappear, do you take the cases?"

"That depends on the neckties," he answered astutely.

"There were three dozen of them altogether," she went on. "Green ones, purple ones, lavender ones, orange ones, yellow ones, pink ones, mauve ones, baby blue ones and some betwixt and between. They all—all belonged to my husband, and they all—all disappeared at one swell foop—fell swoop. Boo hoo! Boo hoo!"

"Where did your husband get them, madam?" queried the great detective.

"I made them for him," she answered simply.

"Madam," he said at length, "I fear this is one of the few cases I am unable to solve. I will send the bill to your husband. If he refuses to pay I'll see what I can do for you."—Detroit Free Press.

GIRLS! GIRLS! YOU MUST TRY THIS! DOUBLES THE BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

A delightful surprise awaits, particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use of Danderine, when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it; surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.—ADV.
